Escaped Genoa Prison Farm Convict Taken In Oklahoma

OILTON Okla. Aug. 10—(AP)—Two prison fugitives who hurled the shot-torn body of a woman from their speeding automobile, wounded Oilton's police chief and kidnaped a farmer, were held Saturday.

The gunmen, Bill Hall, 25, and Joe Lovelace, 24, surrendered to highway patrolmen west of here Friday night after a running gunfight. Hall had been shot five times.

Bill Glimp of Drumright, the farmer hostage, had a flesh wound in one leg. Patrolmen mistook him for one of the fugitives.

Sheriff L. L. Fisher said Lovelace declared the slain woman whom he identified as Jeanne Culp, 30, Asher, Okla., was thrown from the car because "she seemed to be dead" and Hall complained that her body interfered with his driving.

As they drove through Oilton following a pistol-shotgun duel in which Police Chief Ben D. Clark was critically wounded, Lovelace said he noticed the woman was badly hit. He contended, Fisher said, that he did not know who shot her, nor did he account for her presence in the car.

Constable C. L. Irwin, who was with Clark when the officers shot it out at close range with the gunmen, expressed belief the woman was a sweetheart of Hall and was slain accidentally in the exchange.

"They killed the only thing I ever loved," the constable said Hall told Glimp as the automobile roared away from the scene of the encounter, "but by God I got one of them."

Irwin reported that a blast from a shotgun the gunmen carried nearly tore a leg from the woman but an autopsy showed she also had been shot through the body by a bullet from Clark's rifle.

Officers arrested a negro, booked as Henry Washington of Oilton, who admitted he was with the trio. He denied taking part in the shooting.

Clark and Constable Irwin, hunting three men who robbed an Oilton restaurant earlier in the day, halted a black sedan in which Hall, Lovelace, the woman and a negro were riding.

The officer leaped to the running board. A point-blank shotgun charge knocked Clark to the pavement. Irwin emptied his pistol into the car and fell off as it sped away.

The body of the attractive, red-haired young woman was found on a business street a short time later.

Undertaker J. D. Hurley said she was shot twice at close range with a shotgun.

Took Second Car.

Speeding southward over a country road, the gunmen took another car from Earl Williams,

U. S. To Reopen Dakar Consulate

. . . Also St. Pierre-Miquelon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—The state department disclosed today that it was establishing diplomatic listening posts at Dakar, French west Africa, nearest point in Africa to South America, and at St. Pierre-Miquelon, French insular possession off the coast of Canada.

An announcement of changes ordered recently in the American foreign service revealed that the American consulate at Dakar, closed in 1931 as part of an economy drive, would be reopened shortly.

Dakar is the hopping off place for France's trans-Atlantic air service to South America when that service, now dormant, is operating.

Defense Trade Program Near

. . . FOR NEBRASKA

Cochran Stays Over In Capitol To Press For Midwest Plants

Back from Washington Saturday, Attorney General Johnson said the way has been cleared for the release of funds to Nebraska for the inauguration of the national defense trades training program.

Governor Cochran, who was in Washington, too, remained there and next Monday is expected to act as spokesman for a group of midwestern businessmen who will press for a share in the preparedness program.

With the news Johnson brought back, Dr. C. L. Fulmer, head of Nebraska's vocational education department, announced work will be pushed during the week-end to make revisions in Nebraska's plans for the trades training program.

For 6-Months' Period.

"Our first request of $5,000 for funds to start the program will be increased to $25,000 or $30,000," he said, "and will be geared to cover a six months' period. The original request was based on two months."

Dr. Fulmer said all details should be cleared by the end of next week. He hopes the first courses may be opened in Omaha to 110 trainees the week of August 19.

The University of Nebraska and the Lincoln school system have pledged their co-operation. Dr. Fulmer added that "Lincoln has a great many facilities that can be used in the programs and I shouldn't wonder but what the enrollment here will be larger than in Omaha."

Pershing's Proposal Approved by Pinchot

MILFORD, Pa., Aug. 10—(AP)—Former Pennsylvania governor Gifford Pinchot declared today the eve of his 75th birthday that he is "vigorously for a selective draft," and expressed approval of Gen. Pershing's proposal to send old U. S. destroyers to England.

"We have no time to fool away trying experiments," Pinchot asserted in a statement advocating a selective draft. "There is no sense in following the example of nations which were destroyed by their failure to prepare in time."

Pinchot said "Pershing is everlastingly right. Sixty old destroyers will defend America better in Europe than here. They should be sent immediately."

JOE LOVELACE HAS CHECKERED RECORD

Joe Lovelace, 25, of Lincoln, was sentenced to the penitentiary here Sept. 21, 1938, to five years for forgery and transferred to the "honor" prison farm from which he escaped July 26. From 1929 to 1933, Lovelace was in the boys' industrial school at Kearney. Three months after his release, he was arrested here for car stripping, fined $35. Arrested six other times since then, he served a two year term in the reformatory for stealing dynamite from the Baker Hardware company in 1935.

F. D. R. Inspects Two Navy Yards In New England

President Sees Progress Being Made In U. S. Fleet Expansion

BOSTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—As commander-in-chief of the nation's armed forces, President Roosevelt this afternoon inspected the Boston navy yard where eight destroyers have been launched within a year and approximately $8,000,000 has been expended on shop extensions and equipment in the past three years.

The chief executive arrived on the yacht Potomac from the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard where he made an earlier inspection as part of a week-end tour of New England sea and land defenses.

The yard is building, in addition to eight destroyers, two airplane tenders, and four airplane wrecking derricks. It has just received orders for five more destroyers, and orders for another six were expected next week. Nine thousand men are working at the yard.

After inspecting the yard the president headed for the Watertown arsenal to view the forging of big guns for the army.

Visits Portsmouth Yard.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 10—(AP)—President Roosevelt began a week-end inspection of New England sea and land defenses today by observing conditions at the Portsmouth navy yard.

Admiral John D. Wainright, commandant of the yard, told the president the yard had 13 ships building or authorized and that three old submarines, the Bass Barracuda and Bonita, were being reconditioned.

The Sailfish, reconditioned and back in service, was berthed at the yard. The submersible, formerly the Squalis, sank with the loss of 26 lives on May 23, 1939, and of 26 lives on May 23, 1939.

Near the Sailfish, the president saw two subs undergoing reconditioning in a drydock.

Altogether, the yard has three undersea vessels under construction on the ways, four being outfitted, and three being reconditioned. One sub, the Grayling, will be launched Sept. 4.

STEWARDESS INSISTS SHE WAS SLUGGED

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—Pretty Rosemary Olive Griffith, American Airlines stewardess, arrived by plane from Nashville, Tenn., today, still insistent on her story that she had swallowed a key to protect an airliner cargo from an unidentified man who had slugged her as her regular westbound plane neared Nashville Wednesday night.

Miss Griffith appeared near collapse when she steped from her plane.

Asked if she had seen her assailant before she lost consciousness, Miss Griffith said:

"He came from behind. I didn't see even his foot. I didn't see anybody."

She had difficulty explaining how she happened to have swallowed the key to the plane's mail and baggage compartment.

"It's just like all those things you do in an emergency. You just do it.

"I know it sounds impossible." Miss Griffith declared, "but it's true."

—CONSCRIPTION—

Alternate For Draft Rejected

. . . BY SENATE FORCES

Substitute Would Delay Conscription To Jan. 1 While Enlistments Are Being Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—Administration leaders turned a cold shoulder today to talk of a compromise in the senate fight over conscription.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic floor leader, expressed the opinion to reporters that conscription and voluntary enlistments could not be linked successfully in such a system as that offered by Senator Maloney (D-Conn), as a substitute for the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

Maloney would require the registration of all men from 21 through 30, as would the Burke-Wadsworth bill, but he would delay the draft until Jan. 1 while voluntary enlistments were sought. If these enlistments did not fill the army's quota, conscription would be ordered.

(Army enlistments totaled 23,442 in June and 31,958 in July, a peacetime record. The army's strength was 270,183 on July 31, and will be brought to 322,922 as quickly as possible.)

Plan Attracts Support.

Maloney said his proposal appeared to be attracting increasing support, despite administration opposition and the reluctance of conscription opponents to agree that the draft might be needed while the nation was at peace.

One of the latter group, Senator Nye (R-ND), said he was willing to have men from 21 through 30 registered in order to have the draft machinery ready if war came, but could see no reason for abandoning the traditional

2,900 MARINES ARE ORDERED TO CUBA BASE

. . . For Training Maneuvers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—Amid far-reaching plans to strengthen United States defenses in the Caribbean, the navy is ordering 2,900 marines to Guantanamo bay, Cuba, for intensive training maneuvers.

The contingent—the first marine brigade of Quantico, Va.—would be in a position to reach Central or South America quickly, should any trouble requiring their presence arise.

The navy already has undertaken conversion of four fast American ships into "destroyer transports" so that the brigade could be moved swiftly.

The action comes shortly after the adoption at the Havana pan-American conference of a resolution expressing opposition to the transfer to other non-American nations of foreign possessions in this hemisphere. The conference voted to let one or more of the American republics establish a provisional administration over any possession affected.

Second Child Dies of Paralysis Within Week

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 10—(AP)—The second death from infantile paralysis this week was reported today as police joined health officials to stamp out the epidemic which has resulted in quarantining 26 cases in Cabell county.

Fifteen-year-old Edward Comm died this morning in an iron lung. A two-year-old girl died Thursday.

There were no reports of new cases in this Kentucky-West Virginia-Ohio district, where more than two score cases have been recorded.

Found Dead In Shop

OMAHA, Aug. 10—(AP)—Lawson N. Crawford, about 40, was found dead of gas today in the rear of his barber shop here. The body was beside the opened jet of a gas hot water heater.

10,000 MADE HOMELESS BY FLOOD RAIN

. . . In Southwest Louisiana

CROWLEY, La., Aug. 10—(AP)—The coast guard and Red Cross moved today to evacuate all 10,000 residents of this rice belt city in the greatest rain flood of Louisiana history.

Bread and milk were the only foods available this morning, coast guard officials said, and sanitary conditions were becoming acute.

All residents were taken from their homes to the court house, school buildings, rice warehouses and other large buildings.

Precipitation which followed last Tuesday's tropical storm totaled as much as 24 inches in 24 hours in some parts of southwest Louisiana.

A score of towns and communities were inundated, some without water, lights or sewer facilities, and many homes were reported to have drifted away. Rice, cotton and corn crops were heavily damaged. Roads were blocked.

Soviet Not Fortifying Near Alaska

. . . OBSERVERS ASSERT

Passengers Aboard Coast Guard Cutter Say They Saw No Russian Bases On Big Diomedes Isle

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER SHOSHONE, In Bering Sea, (Special Radio to International News Service), Aug. 10—Passengers on the coast guard cutter Shoshone today blasted the report that soviet Russia is fortifying Big Diomedes island, a strategic Russian owned island lying less than a mile from Little Diomedes island, American territory, in Bering strait.

"We have sailed closed enough to Big Diomedes to ascertain positively that the Russians have not fortified it," one of the passengers told a special representative of International News Service. "We looked especially for indications of a submarine or air base, and could find none." This statement was verified by several other passengers.

Several days ago the report that the soviets were building a submarine or air base, or both, on Big Diomedes was spread widely throughout the United States, causing considerable uneasiness because of the island's close proximity to American territory, including Alaska and the Pacific coast states to the south.

See Only Small Schoolhouse.

The Shoshone's passengers said the report probably was due to the fact that the Russians were seen carrying on construction work on the island, leading to the understandable assumption, in these military times, that they were building fortifications.

However, the construction, according to the Shoshone's passengers, was concerned only with a small schoolhouse.

"It was very obviously a schoolhouse, and a small one at that," said the informative passenger. "It's not part of fortification work. There's considerable difference between a little schoolhouse and a submarine or air base."

RIGGS, M'NEILL TO MEET FOR NET TITLE

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 10—(AP)—National Champion Bobby Riggs gained the final round of the eastern grass court tennis championships today with a 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 triumph over Hank Prusoff of Seattle.

Riggs didn't drop a service in scoring his third victory over Prusoff in as many successive tournaments. He will meet Don McNeill of Oklahoma in the finals tomorrow.

Goodman Wins

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 10—Johnny Goodman, Omaha, advanced to semi-finals of the Northland invitational golf tournament here Saturday, defeating Runcie Martin, Duluth, 7 and 5. Dean Ritchie, Wichita, Kas., lost to Earl Larson, Minneapolis, 2 and 1.

Reich Launches 'Terror' Raids

Bombs Are Rained On Advancing Italians

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 10—(AP)—Italian motorized infantry and guns continued their advance toward Britain's "main positions" in the hills south of Berbera in Somaliland today, the British admitted, despite heavy air attacks on Italian supply ports and military concentrations.

At the same time Egypt hastened steps to prepare for a possible co-ordinated Italian drive toward the Suez canal.

The British communique said "the Italian advance is continuing toward our main positions."

A previous announcement said the Italians had been bombed as they threaded their way through Karrin pass in the hot, barren slopes just east of Hargeisa, which the Italians occupied early this week, toward Berbera, principal British port overlooking the Gulf of Aden.

Aden, 150 miles across the gulf, was bombed fiercely this morning by Italian raiders.

(Reports direct from Aden said one soldier and three natives were killed and 17 persons wounded.)

Shipping Damaged.

In one of the biggest raids aimed at Italian objectives yesterday, a Royal Air Force communique said bomb hits set afire an Italian vessel and damaged other shipping in the harbor at Tobruk, Libya, where Italy supplies her forces.

British bombers, directed to their objectives by reconnoitering French pilots also roared through heavy anti-aircraft fire to shower bombs on Italian positions near Hargeisa, British Somaliland, where the Italians were reported making progress through the mountain passes toward the coast.

Another formation of British bombers raided Massaua, Eritrea, and reported direct hits on gun emplacements and several buildings in that Red sea port.

Still another attack was made on the Italian airdrome at Neghelli, Abyssinia, where two Italian Caproni bombers on the ground were said to have been destroyed.

In the attacks on Italian troops driving across British Somaliland, the British reported countless

241,315 HOMES BUILT FIRST HALF OF 1940

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—The labor department said today that 241,315 new dwellings valued at about $825,000,000 were built in non farm areas of the United States during the first half of 1940.

It computed the increase for the period over the first six months of 1939 at 8 per cent.

At the same time the federal housing administration reported that increased industry was partly responsible for a new monthly high in mortgage insurance activity for July.

The FHA said that it had accepted for insurance 20,291 mortgages amounting to $88,073,500, compared with mortgages totaling $84,356,600 in June, the previous high month, and $50,603,100 in July, 1939.

Nazi Sub Sinks Ship Inside U.S. Neutrality Zone, Dispatch Claims

Yugoslavian Freighter Goes Down Off Saint Vincent In West Indies

LONDON, Aug. 10—(INS)—A German submarine, reportedly operating within the United States neutrality zone, has sunk the 4,210-ton Yugoslavian freighter Rad off Saint Vincent in the West Indies, Exchange Telegraph said today quoting dispatches reaching Belgrade.

The Rad, according to reports reaching Belgrade, was en route from Baltimore to Durban in South Africa when she was sunk, Exchange said.

The vessel's crew of 29 was saved after the attack which occurred Aug. 7; it was said.

Saint Vincent, a British island, is less than 100 miles south of the French island of Martinique which is reportedly being patrolled by units of the British fleet.

Auburn Man Is Fatally Stabbed; Wife Being Held

. . . In Hospital There

AUBURN, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Mrs. Jessie Whitlow McIntyre, 30, was held under guard today at an Auburn hospital following the fatal stabbing last night of her WPA worker husband, Ival, 26, during a quarrel in their trailer home here.

The husband, stabbed in the breast with a short dagger, died at 5 a. m., today without regaining consciousness.

County Attorney John T. McKnight, who questioned the woman at the hospital where she was taken in a hysterical condition, said she told him her husband had been drinking and attacked her.

Lost Grocery Money.

According to her story, McKnight related, the husband had lost their grocery money in a dice game and they quarreled. He knocked her down twice and was coming for her again when she obtained the dagger from a drawer and stabbed him.

McKnight said he planned to investigate further before deciding whether charges will be filed. He added he didn't know the origin of the dagger, which was in a leather sheath.

Mrs. McIntyre is the daughter of Marion Whitlow, county road overseer, and mother of a 12-year-old child by a previous marriage. They had been married five years. McIntyre was the son of Henry McIntyre of Auburn. They lived in a trailer shack set up on property adjoining the Whitlow home here.

Foes Settle Down To Punishing War Of Air

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)—German bombers, power-diving at 400 miles an hour, unloaded explosives in mass attacks today on British ships protected by balloon barages and rained whistling bombs on coastal Britain in heavy "terror" raids.

The Germans attacking the balloon-protected ships off the southeast coast were reported to have been driven off without hitting their targets by anti-aircraft fire.

(The nazi high command claimed destruction of 12 of the big balloons, anchored to the ships by long cables, in Thursday's heavy air fighting over the English channel.)

Aiming one of the biggest assaults of the war that the northwest coast has experienced, the nazis dropped a dozen whistling bombs, whose ear-splitting screeching frightens as well as does damage.

Heavy explosive bombs showered on another sector in that area killed four persons, injured two and damaged residential property but missed military objectives.

Raiders Kill Two

Two men were killed and a number injured in a raid on a northeast coastal town.

In a second raid on shipping off the southeast coast, German bombers ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire, hurriedly deposited three bombs which missed their mark and scurried back toward France.

Raids last night and early today caused an unannounced number of casualties as the nazi planes unloaded their bombs on scattered objectives. Four persons were killed in one northwest coastal town alone.

A single German plane bombed and machine-gunned a southeast town, causing several casualties. The plane dropped 12 bombs before it fled with British fighters in pursuit.

Fifteen to 20 houses were damaged by bombs in another town in the same area.

War Tempo Mounts.

(By the Associated Press.)

Belligerent powers settled down today to a punishing war of air power and the United Kingdom, the European continent and Africa felt and heard the crash of bombs, the thunder of anti-aircraft fire and chattering of machine gun fire in growing volume.

Italy claimed further gains in her land drive into British Somaliland and all the belligerents issued communiques telling of aerial exploits.

The Germans said:

Their methodical bombers, working "on schedule," blasted British airplane and munitions plants, causing great fires and explosions, destroyed an airport runway north of Bristol and blasted shipyards; German anti-aircraft batteries brought down two British planes, bringing their total bag for the war to 1,500 "enemy" planes.

The Italians said:

Their columns, pushing into Somaliland, have passed Adueins, east of Hargeisa; their planes bombed Berbera, main seaport of British Somaliland their warplanes hit British objectives along he Egyptian coast; British battleship Resolution and a destroyer were damaged seriously by bombs Aug. 1.

The British said:

Their aircraft bombed an Italian vessel in Tobruk harbor, Libya, setting it aflame; French pilots co-operated in reconnaissance and then R. A. F. bombers struck at positions the Italians had set up near Hargeisa; British bombers made a successful, damaging raid on Massaua, Eritrea; the British south African air force blew up two Italian bombers and damaged two others at the Italian airdrome at Neghelli, Ethiopia.

All day long the German raids on Britain continued, causing a number of casualties and provoking dog fights with defending fighters.

Airport Bond Issue At Fremont Proposed

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—E. J. Robins, president of the Fremont Airport company, proposed in a letter today to the chamber of commerce that a public meeting be called to consider submitting a 33,000 bond issue for the purchase of a 218-acre airport for Fremont.

Three Enlist—James T. Mays, 653 North Twenty-seventh, Roger S. Hall, 1020 Plum, and George A. Bloom, Route 1, have been accepted for enlistment in the U. S. army and sent to the 3rd cavalry at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Change In Navy Reserve—Navy enlistment headquarters in the Lincoln postoffice building announced Saturday that they are no longer interviewing applicants for the navy reserve program. This branch of enlistment is now being handled in Omaha.

Sent To Reformatory—Charles McNulty, 20, was handed a 1-to-20-year reformatory sentence Saturday after he pleaded guilty in District court to forging a $25 check. Judge Polk imposed the sentence. County Attorney Towle charged McNulty with forging the check Aug. 8, making it payable to Arthur M. Ring and signing the name "George L. Towne." It was drawn on the First National bank. McNulty told Judge Polk he was unable to find work and found the check. He had been on probation.

Deny Charges—Complaint was filed Saturday charging Richard Stapleton, and Mary Logan, both colored, with assault with intent to rob one Willard Lowman. The offense allegedly took place Aug. 3. The two defendants were arraigned in Municipal court Saturday, pleaded not guilty. Trial was set for Aug. 16, with bonds at $1,500 each. Lieutenant Eugene Masters of Lincoln police signed the complaints.

Asks Pin Ball License—Application for a license to operate a pin ball alley with four lanes at 1115 P street, has been filed with the city clerk by George Klause. License and occupation taxes for this class amusement is the same as for a bowling alley, $2.50 each per alley.

Omaha Oil Firm Plans Two Wells
... IN AUBURN AREA

OMAHA, Aug. 10—(AP)—The Bow and Arrow Oil company, a firm made up primarily of Omahans, began drilling an oil well near Auburn this week, and another will be started next week, general manager Jack C. Allgaier, who also is president of the Omaha Athletic club, announced today.

Present drilling, on the Schrieter farm a mile and a half southwest of Auburn, has gone down almost three hundred feet, he said. It is planned to bore to the Hunton lime stratum, estimated at 2,100 feet. Next week's drilling will be six miles northeast of Auburn.

The company is negotiating for a third drilling in Nemaha county, but the location has not been definitely determined, Allgaier added.

The Omahan, who has oil interests in Texas and lived in Wichita when oil was discovered in that area, said that the company will consider financing a refinery here whenever the production in the Falls City and Auburn areas is great enough and consistent enough to make it economically feasible.

Actor Stander Fights Suspension From Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10—(AP)—Lionel Stander enlisted aid of the Screen Actors' Guild today to prevent his suspension from a new picture because he has been called into a grand jury probe of communist party activities.

The gravel-voiced character actor was removed from an important role in Republic's "Hit Parade of 1941" yesterday with the explanation that "he might be subpoenaed in the middle of production."

To which Stander retorted:

"Republic's action is both stupid and absurd. I have been assured by the district attorney that I am a loyal American and a decent citizen and am so regarded by the authorities."

Five Dead, Four Injured As Automobies Collide

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky., Aug. 10—(AP)—Five persons were killed and four others injured early today in a head-on crash of two automobiles two miles north of here.

The dead were identified as Miss Bettie Small, 21, and Mrs. Margaret Parker, 22, both of Louisville, and Carl Thomas Miller, 23, and Edward Ray Gardner, 26, both of Magnolia, Ky., and Wiley Skaggs, 26, Louisville.

NASH TO PRODUCE LOW PRICE AUTO

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 10—(INS)—Nash motors division of Nash-Kelvinator Corp. announced today it will enter the low priced automobile field this fall with "a completely new kind of automobile."

Schaefer was president of the Bank of Danzig before that city's incorporation into the reich.

Moscow Says U. S. Preparing To Enter War

MOSCOW, Aug. 10—(AP)—Russia's army newspaper Red Star asserted today that the United States is preparing to occupy the Western hemisphere colonies of European nations as a prelude to armed intervention in the war.

The army organ cited the United States program of rearmament and proposals for military training as evidence.

Referring to the July conference of American foreign ministers at Havana, the newspaper said:

"No doubt its real purpose was not the defense of British, French and Dutch colonies in the Western hemisphere, but preparation to occupy those colonies."

"Actually the war in Europe has increased Anglo-American cross-purposes," the Red Star added, charging the United States with trying to exclude Britain as well as other competitors from the South American markets while England was turning toward compromise with Japan."

Father Awardel Boy In Religious Dispute

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(INS)—Harold Moberg, Des Moines, Ia., businessman, today was awarded temporary custody of his son, Robert, 11, on his plea that the boy was being harmed by the teachings of the "I Am Presence" cult while he remained in custody of his mother. The Mobergs were divorced in 1934.

Master in Chancery Thomas J. Sheehan made the custody award after conducting a hearing in which letters written by the mother, Naomi, to her son constituted the chief evidence. In the letters were tales of "ascended masters" who were able to "dissolve" submarines, stories of "I Am" members able to "precipitate" gold, and claims that a "purple light" of magical power was available for use by cult members.

FILM STAR SAYS ONLY U. S. CAN STOP HITLER

DENVER, Aug. 10—(INS)—Robert Montgomery, Hollywood star, recently returned to America from the real-life role of a volunteer ambulance driver in France, today continued on to the nation's film capital after telling Denver only "the United States" can stop the march of Hitler.

WRITER SUCCEEDS IN SECOND SUICIDE LEAP

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—Harlan McIntosh, 32-year-old writer, who was disuaded from a 16-story suicide leap three months ago by policemen who coaxed him off a window ledge, was dead today, having hurled himself to death from the roof of the five-story building where he lived in Greenwich Village.

Before plunging, McIntosh shouted and waved to pedestrians to get out of his way. They scattered as he plummeted to the sidewalk.

McIntosh, a graduate of Leland Stanford university, and reportedly son of a professor at Oregon State university, left several notes and letters with a taxi driver with whom he had been drinking prior to returning to his residence.

William Tempels Are Honored At Farewell Parties

AND the parties still go on, especially those for Mr. and Mrs. William G. Tempel, who with their children, Joan and Billy, jr., will leave for their new home in Lima, O., Monday.

Friday evening fifty-five former students and friends of Mr. Tempel entertained at a party at the Lincoln hotel in honor of the Tempels. On behalf of the group Morris Hayes presented Mr. Tempel with a diamond-studded cameo ring and Mrs. Tempel was given a corsage of gardenias. A dessert supper followed an evening of cards and dancing when a red and white color motif was used in the appointments. Letters were read from several who were unable to be present.

Those in charge of the arrangements were Miss Louise Stapleton, Paul LeBar, Mr. Hayes, Jack Donovan and Jack Traver.

Preceding the party Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mardis entertained at a picnic supper in the garden of their home.

Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Tempel will be the breakfast guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtiss and Sunday noon Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry will entertain in their honor. Mr. and Mrs. Tempel will again be honored Sunday evening at a party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Gillaspie.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Tempel were honored at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Grover Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes at the Happy Hollow club in Omaha and Thursday evening they were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kiesselbach at the University club.

Enroute to Lima the Tempels will spend a few days in Chicago as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Woodward, formerly of Lincoln.

Newsmen Put At Ease by Windsors

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 10—(AP)—The Duchess of Windsor, who will be first lady of the Bahamas when the duke goes there to assume his duties as governor, already has proved of considerable aid to her husband in the islands.

Throughout the long interview they gave the press yesterday, the duke noticeably depended on the duchess for whispered promptings. Both seemed amused at the opening formality of reporters, who had been coached carefully in the proper form of address. The royal couple soon set the interview on such an informal plane that few bothered to say "your royal highness" or "your grace."

The duke, asked what he would do in the Bahamas with the trailer they brought from Europe, said:

"I don't think we will have much use for it. But we are very sold on that trailer."

American Planes May Be Flown To England

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)—The British overseas airways plane Clare returned to her home base in the British Isles today after a round trip flight to New York. She brought four young Americans from San Francisco who said they would engage in ferrying British planes from factories to Royal Air Force bases.

However, it was believed in reliable quarters that after a period of instruction the quartet would be used in piloting United States planes across the Atlantic.

The Americans, L. S. King, A. A. Caraine, F. W. O'Hanlan and W. G. Moraga, said they have one-year contracts with the British overseas airways.

Miss Maxine Malone United In Marriage With Elmer L. Fettin

• • •

Greenery formed the background of the altar of St. Patrick's Catholic church Saturday morning, when Miss Maxine Malone, daughter of Mrs. Mayme W. Malone, became the bride of Elmer L. Fettin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Fettin. Gold candelabra were used with the green and the altar cloth repeated the gold. The Rev. Father Godfrey, O. F. M., officiated at the 8 o'clock ceremony.

Miss Jeanette Malone sang "Ave Maria" and Delbert Pinkerton sang "Panis Angelicus." Miss Mabel Partington, the organist, played the Lohengrin processional music and accompanied the recessional with the Mendelssohn march.

The maid of honor was Miss Bernice Malone, sister of the bride. She wore white pique with a V neck, from which pearl buttons extended to the waist through the wide girdle. The sleeves were puffed. Her Juliet cap was of white daisies and she carried daisies.

Leroy McCaig was the best man. The ushers were William Malone and Orin Overcash.

The bride had chosen white silk net for her marriage. Narrow lace edged the high neck and the wrists of the bishop's sleeves. The yoke was fashioned of lace and insertion with tiny pearl buttons. The wide girdle of the slim waist was accented by the fulled skirt. Mrs. Fettin had a fingertip veil of bridal illusion held by gardenias. Her flowers were gardenias, white roses, and swansonia.

The guests remained at the church for the reception. Mrs. Eugene Hulbert, jr., received the guests at the door. The bride table was arranged with white flowers and crystal sticks with silver candles and wedding bells. Garden flowers and white candles in crystal holders of white candles were used on the other tables. Assisting were Misses Ruth Robotham, Eloise Hughes, Alberta Fettin, sister of the bridegroom, Lorene Fogarty, and Margaret Aylward. Miss Ellen Hulbert had the guest book. The bridal party received before a background of ferns. The gift room was at the home of the bride.

Following a trip to Colorado, the couple will be at home at 4204 North Seventieth street, Lincoln. Mrs. Fettin is traveling in brown chiffon with brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fettin, of Omaha, were guests at the wedding.

Miss Barbara Hart Weds Bernard Morris

Miss Barbara Hart, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Hart, of Kearney, became the bride of Bernard J. Morris, of Evansville, Ind., son of J. P. Morris, at St. Luke's Episcopal church Friday morning. The Rev. P. D. Gough read the service at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Harold Lewis, of New York City, sang a group of numbers preceding the ceremony. Harold Lewis was at the organ. Mrs. Mary Kellam Jacobson played the wedding music.

Mrs. S. S. St. Johnson was her sister's matron of honor. She wore rose woolen jersey, with brown accessories. Her corsage was of rubrum lilies.

The bride had chosen a costume suit in soldier blue with mink trimming. Orchids formed her shoulder corsage.

A small reception followed at the home. Following a western motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Morris will live in Evansville.

Both attended the University of Nebraska, where Mrs. Morris is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and he of Sigma Chi. Mrs. Morris also has studied music in California.

Profits Tax Vote Within Week Sought

Defense Production In America Being Impeded By Bottlenecks Assert Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—House tax leaders decided today to try to pass the new excess profits tax bill within a week, in order to knock out the bottlenecks which manufacturers say have been impeding defense production.

Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) of the ways and means committee sai that major opposition to the three-point revenue program had failed to develop.

"We were ready to hold hearings day and night, but it doesn't look as if there are enough witnesses to do that," he said.

His prediction came as the committee, joined by senate finance committeemen, sat down to hear taxation experts explain in detail the principles of the proposed excess profits levy. They estimate that it will yield $300,000,000 the first year and $500,000,000 annually thereafter.

The start of the hearings yesterday brought pleas by leaders of the defense program for the two other features of the bill—plans for manufacturers to amortize quickly the cost of plant expansion, and repeal of the 7 and 8 per cent profit limitations on shipbuilding under the Vinson-Trammell act.

Secretary of War Stimson and other witnesses said that uncertainty over taxes, profits and amortization was causing some companies to go slowly in expanding for defense purposes.

William S. Knudsen, defense commission member, said that the amortization and tax features should be combined in a single bill. Republicans had advanced the suggestion that it might be well to tackle amortization immediately so that it would not be delayed by possible disagreements over the profits tax.

Senator Clark (D-Mo), expressed concern that less than one per cent of the new defense contracts—for both materials and construction—had been allocated to the 22 states between the big mountain ranges.

Knudsen replied that the vast program was just under way and that as progress was made, there would be an inevitable expansion throughout the country.

Clark said later that if the defense commission did not act quickly, he would attempt to make a nationwide allocation of funds when the tax bill reaches the senate. He arranged a conference for Monday between Knudsen and senators from the Mississippi river region.

Western Wheat Harvest Ended

. . . MAY EXCEED 1939

SIDNEY, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—The 1940 winter wheat harvest is about over in this part of western Nebraska, with estimates believed reliable placing the crop at about the same level as last year.

A few farm observers think the 1940 yield might have exceeded the 1939 total, especially in Cheyenne and Deuel counties. However, no accurate means of comparing the two years is possible at this time because the bulk of the 1940 grain has gone into storage on farms and has not been measured by federal loan inspectors.

Cheyenne county's total crop has been variously placed at from two to three million bushels this year. Some farmers think the figures are high, although they admit that the general crop turned out much better than expected. Official per acre yields reported in this county ran from four to 34 bushels, with the bulk running between 15 and 20 bushels.

Almost every accredited elevator in western Nebraska is jammed with new wheat, being held under federal loan contracts. At least two elevators in Cheyenne county have stored more than 75 thousand bushels each.

Protein content in this year's wheat ran well above normal, with some farmers reporting protein tests as high as 18.5 per cent. Nearly all of the grain weighed out well, running from 56 to 61 pounds per bushel.

Attebery Again Tops Chicago Stock Market

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(AP)—Fred Attebery, famous cattle feeder from Scotts Bluff county, Nebraska, topped the Chicago market again yesterday and got a new high price for the month. His 19 steers brought $12.10 per hundredweight and averaged 1,446 pounds.

Attebery leads all other cattle feeders in the country in the number of times he has marketed top selling droves of cattle at the Chicago stock yards in recent years.

Martinson In Fair Condition

Carl Martinson, 32, Omaha roofing company employe, whose two companions were killed in an auto accident at Waverly Friday just after midnight, remained in fair condition at Bryan Memorial hospital Saturday.

Martinson suffered severe shock, three bad cuts, a possible fracture of the skull, and a brain injury. He was reported Saturday to be "responding better" by hospital authorities. He does not know yet the results of the accident.

Glen Baker Of Adams Killed In Gage Crash

. . . 5 Others Injured

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Glen Baker, 53, of Adams, Neb., was injured fatally late yesterday in a head-on automobile collision three and one-half miles east of Beatrice on Highway 3. He died at a hospital here shortly before midnight.

Injured in the accident were Fred Kenning, 57, Steele City, broken finger and cut wrist; Mrs. Kenning, possible skull fracture, multiple head and arm lacerations, deep scalp wound; Miss Julia Kenning, 22, niece of Mrs. Kenning, possible skull fracture; Mildred Kenning, 29, and another niece, cuts and bruises; Julia Sanders, 24, Adams, bruises.

Baker, riding in the front seat of a car driven by Lee Rabel, 26, Adams, was thrown through the windshield. The Rabel car was in collision with one driven by Mr. Kenning. Miss Sanders was riding with Baker and Rabel, while the others were in the Kenning car.

WILLKIE CLUB HAS OPENED OFFICES HERE

Offices for the state-wide Willkie club movement, aimed to attract on-the-fence voters to the republican presidential candidate, were open for business in Lincoln Saturday in the Stuart building.

C. C. Fraizer, Aurora attorney who is chairman of the Nebraska clubs, announced the appointment of George Cook, treasurer, and Lee Rankin, Lincoln, temporary secretary. Rankin headed the Nebraska pre-primary campaign of Thomas E. Dewey.

Plans for a membership campaign were made at a meeting here Friday afternoon.

Funds for financing the clubs in Nebraska are to come from 25-cent dues from members, but Fraizer said failure to pay the 25 cents wouldn't bar anybody from the club.

Attending the meeting besides Fraizer, Cook and Rankin were G. E. Price, Guy Chambers, Harry Spencer, James Kinsinger, and Robert Van Pelt, all of Lincoln, and Thomas Sheehan, Mrs. Ruby Northrup, Charles S. Reed and Jack Marer, all of Omaha. Reed worked previous to the primary for the nomination of Senator Arthur Vandenberg.

Tired of Artillery

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 10—(AP)—Paul Dennis, 18, of nearby Askam, who earned his living by being "shot" from a cannon, wants to join the army.

But, the "Human Cannon Ball," told Recruiting Sergt. Joseph Weimer he wants to get in the air corps because "I'm tired of artillery."

Nazis Not To Feed Ex-Foes

Have Enough For Selves; Unconcerned Over Occupied Lands

BERLIN, Aug. 10—(AP)—The nazi press took a rosy view today of Germany's winter food prospects, but was less sanguine about occupied lands, over which it said Germany could not be expected to be too greatly concerned.

The papers said an adequate food supply for Germany is assured, and that even the Balkan crops, "while not record breakers," are more than sufficient to feed the southeast.

(This varied with statistics released by the Rumanian institute of business research, which said the Russian grab of Bessarabia and the northern Bucovina included 35 per cent of the Rumanian wheat crop, 38 per cent of barley, 53 per cent of rye and 23 per cent of corn—enough to have supplied Germany's import needs.

Pinched By British Blockade.

While emphasizing Germany's food prospects, the German papers frankly were not optimistic about the occupied countries, particularly the low countries and France, which they said were being pinched by the British blockade.

Germany's first obligation is toward Germans, the press asserted. While Germany will be actuated by humanitarian motives to some degree, she cannot be expected to concern herself too much over the populations which fought Germany and now face want because they have "ruined, neglected or deserted" their own farms.

(This stand was emphasized in a German broadcast addressed to the United States and heard today by CBS in New York, in which the nazi propagandist known as "Okay" suggested Britain could avert "a serious food shortage" without aiding Germany by relaxing her blockade of the continent.

Prisoners Need Food.

(After referring to a recent British statement that sending food to France "would relieve Hitler of the necessity of supplying like relief to the peoples of the countries he has occupied," he then said:

("Now, who in the world ever expected a victor to provide his enemies or former enemies with food?")

(Richard Allen, European delegate of the American Red Cross, returning to Vichy yesterday after a tour of the 28 camps in the German-occupied parts of France where French soldiers are held, said they badly needed food and medical supplies.

(The civilian population in the occupied area is not badly off yet, Allen said, but its situation will be critical by winter.)

Willie Adams Dies

WISNER, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Willie Adams, 58, president of the Farmers' Union, a state trucking association, and vice president of the union's state exchange at Omaha, died in a West Point hospital last night following a heart attack. His widow, five daughters and three sons survive.

Nebraska Guard All Ready To Spend Next Six Days In Hardships Of Mock Warfare

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn., Aug. 10—(AP)—There is quite a stir in Camp Ripley, because the 47,000 troops concentrated here are about to depart base camps and indulge in six days of mock war, experiencing all the hardships of the field.

Zero hour will be around noon Sunday when the problems of the maneuver will be handed to the chiefs of staff of the two opposing divisions. Guardsmen who left a comfortable home and bed a week ago on Sunday, will leave their eight-man tents and cots, and get even closer to nature during the next week.

The army is trying out a new feeding idea during these maneuvers, and each man will be given a ham, jam, and cheese sandwich to lug along. That does for his stomach needs, dispensing with the cumbersome rolling kitchens which have a way of being too far behind to keep up with a soldier's appetite. There's nothing, the army heads believe, which destroys soldier morale any quicker than a gnawing sensation of hunger, with no forage in sight.

The Pay Question

The matter of pay has been subject of much discussion in company streets, but it hasn't bothered the guardsmen much. They've been carefree as usual, although they've been the victims of financial circumstances.

Nobody could foresee the sudden urge to re-arm when the legislature made its last appropriation, therefore the usual guard money was allowed. Since then, guard strength was ordered increased, the company manpower sprang from 64 men on the average to 80 men. Length of the camp period was pushed from 15 days to 21. This left Nebraska with a problem, and no money to solve it. Now, instead of the usual $1 per day paid by the state to guardsmen in camp, each man will get 40 cents. Of course, his federal pay will be as usual. From the state, the guardsman gets $12.60 less this year than he has been accustomed to expect for his services.

Odds and Ends

About Nebraskans:

Top sergeant of Norfolk's Co. B, 110th medics, is the county attorney, Andrew D. Mapes. When the boys come in late, and he quizzes them, he gets the same answers he's used to in court: "I don't remember"...Lee Durbin, Lincoln, married three weeks, says he's on a government sponsored honeymoon. He's taking his half without the wife....Four Hastings men are listed as sicks—Earl Fristo who all but cut off the two middle fingers of his left hand while opening a can of beans; Dick Warrick and Bob Gensmer, with sore feet; and Bob Brook, with asthma ...Capt. Hermann G. Mattson, of Kearney, rates the best cook among the Nebraska officers.

Robert Godfernon, Nebraska City, is being troubled with a knee dislocation which happened three weeks ahead of camp...Nebraska's quartermaster and medic outfits are encamped on the worst site of all the places selected for tent pitching. It's a wheat stubbled-field, and the dust has powdered to choking quantity with the tramping of hundreds of feet and constantly rolling trucks ...Maj. Fred Stohl of Beatrice may be listed as a vocal casualty—he's lost his voice and whispers ...This has been a war of movement as far as Capt. Barney Oldfield is concerned. In five days in camp, he has lived in 10 different tents, three of which he put up himself, and two of which the colonel made him tear down... Allen Carmichael, of Lexington, thought he drew the finest detail in the Ripley maneuver, when his sergeant sent him to get seven "new" housewives for the company. Imagine his chagrin upon finding "housewives" are army sewing kits.

Turkey Aids Hungry

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 10—(AP)—The Red Crescent—the Turkish Red Cross—responded today to an appeal from the International Red Cross for aid for "millions of French refugees already on the verge of starvation," with 50 truckloads of supplies.

MISS BELL REYNOLDS OF YORK DIES; WAS CIVIC LEADER THERE

YORK, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Miss Bell Reynolds, about 60, daughter of a pioneer York physician, died at a hospital Friday. She had been a resident of York more than 50 years, and was prominent in social and literary activities. A sister, Miss Grace Reynolds of York, is the nearest surviving relative.

Exports Slashed

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 10—(AP Via Berlin)—A drastic curtailment of Denmark's exports of foodstuffs due to war stoppage of her fodder imports was foreshadowed today in a report of the agricultural council.

The council estimated that butter exports would drop by 100,000 tons, slaughtered pigs from 180,000 to 40,000 tons, eggs from 100,000,000 to 21,000,000.

Exports of live pigs will decline from 4,000,000 to 2,000,000, cattle from 3,300,000 to 2,800,000, and chickens from 12,000,000 to 7,000,000.

The report said Denmark must depend exclusively upon her own harvests to feed her livestock.

Terry Moore, National league outfielder, says he's two steps slower in a night game. This, he says, is because he can't immediately judge the course of a fly ball.

James A. Farley Heads Coca-Cola Export Corp.

Retiring Cabinet Officer To Have Headquarters In Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 10—(AP)—James A. Farley, retiring postmaster general and democratic national chairman, today was appointed chairman of the Coca-Cola Export Corp.

Robert W. Woodruff, chairman of the Coca-Cola company's board of directors, announced Farley had accepted a position "in charge of all export business and particularly of the expansion of our business in foreign countries."

Farley's resignation as democratic chairman becomes effective Aug. 17 and he leaves the cabinet Aug. 31.

Woodruff indicated the retiring postmaster general would report here after a vacation and said his headquarters would be in Wilmington.

Expected Buy Yanks, Too.

A company spokesman said Farley has been "acquainted for years" with Woodruff and that his appointment climaxes discussion between the two "over a considerable period."

It is up to Farley, the spokesman added, to say whether he will disclose his salary and when he will start his new job.

Reports have been current that the retiring democratic leader, who bowed out of politics after his party's recent national convention, would head a syndicate to purchase the New York Yankees American league baseball club.

A Coca-Cola company official said he did not believe Farley's position as head foreign salesman for the soft drink would interfere with any plans he might have about the baseball team. He added, however, that Farley must make this decision himself.

No Hitch Seen.

In New York, a close friend of Farley said the postmaster general's new position with the Coca-Cola corporation in no way would interfere with his negotiations to buy the New York Yankee baseball property.

He added, in fact, that the transaction probably would be completed next week.

"He has a substantial agreement with the Yankees and there are only a few matters to be ironed out," the friend said. "There is nothing serious in the way of completing the purchase."

Farley and a group of unidentified associates have been reported to have offered approximately $4,000,000 for the club.

Farley has refused comment on all questions concerning the Yankee deal. Friends said his Coca-Cola position would be his only business connection in private life, except for the Yankee matter.

Farley said in a statement he would take at least a month's vacation before assuming his new duties.

George F. Williams Is LCLU President

. . . Succeeds Chapman

The Lincoln Central Labor Union elected George F. Williams to its presidency Friday evening at a business meeting in the Labor temple.

Other officers named: J. E. Fram, vice president; H. J. Lockwood, secretary-treasurer; P. E. Hall, sergeant at arms; and Neil Collins, delegate to the state federation.

The following executive board was also named: Arthur N. House, Lee Chapman, and Neil Collins. Paul Chapman is the outgoing president.

JUNIOR DRILL TEAM OF LEGION AUXILIARY IN STATE FAIR MEET

Arrangements have been completed for the American Legion auxiliary's junior drill team to participate in the annual state fair drill contest, 30 members of the auxiliary were told Friday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. V. H. Kitrell presided.

Mrs. W. A. Miller, welfare chairman, reported the need for clothing, and the importance of membership was stressed in letters from Mrs. Ada McVicker, department secretary, and Mrs. Clara Zastera, district president, which were read to the gathering.

Mrs. R. D. Stage was in charge of the program which consisted of two piano selections by Ted Schuman.

Delegates and alternates to the department convention will meet with Mrs. Kitrell August 16, to receive crendentials.

Mrs. P. H. King announced the kensington will hold an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Kitrell on Friday, August 30. Hostesses will be Mrs. E. R. Harris, Mrs. C. B. Van Kirk, Mrs. R. Patterson, and Mrs. Charles Sherman.

Fire Destroys Home

NORTH BEND, Neb., Aug. 10—Fire destroyed the farm home of Mrs. Mary Ondracek, three and a half miles northwest of here late Friday while the family was away. The flames were of unknown origin. The loss, covered by insurance, was estimated at $2,000.

Dr. Updegraff Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 10—(AP)—Funeral services were held Friday for Howard L. Updegraff, plastic surgeon who came here 13 years ago from Omaha. He died Thursday. He was a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a son of Dr. E. J. Updegraff, Omaha. A brother, Lee, survives.

Asa Miller, Elk Creek Elevator Man, Dies; Rites Will Be Sunday

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., Aug. 10—Asa E. Miller, 60, of Elk Creek died in a Lincoln hospital Friday morning. He had been in failing health for a number of years. Mr. Miller had been the owner and operator of a grain elevator at Elk Creek since 1926.

He is survived by his wife and two children, a son, Frank, who was associated with him in the elevator business, and a daughter, Lois, wife of Anthony Artz of Tecumseh. The funeral will be held in Elk Creek Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. C. Street, a Methodist minister of Lincoln, formerly of Elk Creek. The interment will be in the Elk Creek cemetery.

Hard Rains In Western Sector

. . . Range To 4 Inches

A hard rainstorm swept across northern Frontier and southern strips of Lincoln and Dawson counties late Friday afternoon bringing moisture which measured up to more than 4 inches between Moorefield and Farnam.

The rest of the state, however, remained dry and Saturday found temperatures on the way up after a cool night. The low reading here Saturday morning was 63 degrees; the high Friday was 84. Fog covered south eastern Nebraska again early Saturday but was soon banished by the sun.

The Burlington reported a southwestern storm left an inch of rain in the vicinity of Wellfleet with a heavier fall between 4 and 5 inches to the eastward.

Driver Education On Parking Meters

. . . Highly Effective

The first month of the parking meters, which ended this week, found Lincoln drivers pretty well educated as to their use. Most violations are pure carelessness.

For the first three weeks, no arrests were taken to court, but were dismissed, to permit the public to become accustomed to the meters. However, since July 31, 95 persons have paid fines for meter violations.

It's most always the same story—"got to visiting and got back to the car just a minute late..." —carelessness, at $2 a ticket (costs included).

A couple of times, however, drivers have brought tickets to traffic headquarters with the question "what happens when you put a nickel in the wrong meter?" They then explained that they thought the meter for the stall they drove into was farther to the left than it actually was. These mistakes have been overlooked when the traffic clerks were convinced they were genuine.

One Lincoln man, however, vows he will stop using the meters entirely. He and his wife have had four tickets between them since the fines started. That's $8, and the meters only cost $65 apiece. He came into the traffic division office this week with the question "When are you going to deliver these meters out to my house?"

E. S. Martin Dead

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 10—(AP)—Edgar Stanley Martin, 67, national director of publications of the Boy Scouts of America, died yesterday.

Willkie Spurns Advance Tie-Up With Democrats

. . . On Foreign Policy

Unnamed Persons Asked G. O. P. Nominee To Enter Commitments

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 10—(AP)—As the republican nominee, Wendell L. Willkie wants no "advance commitments and understandings" with the democratic administration regarding foreign policy and claims "an unhampered right of public discussion" of such policy.

"The chief executive and congress must bear their appropriate responsibilities and the candidate for the presidency of the United States should reserve to himself an unhampered right of public discussion," Willkie said, in a statement.

The nominee issued the statement late yesterday after telling his press conference that unnamed persons had approached him recently with suggestions "that I enter into certain commitments on specific proposals concerned with the foreign policy of the United States, provided the administration would take certain positions thereto."

Says His Views Well Known.

Some of the persons, Willkie said, stated "they did not represent the administration, while others left their status in doubt."

"First of all," Willkie said, "my general views on the foreign policy and the vital interests of the United States in the present international situation are well known. x x x"

During a talk yesterday with about 50 western Kansas editors, Willkie was asked whether he had any Wall street connections. He made this statement:

"I occupy no business position and have no business connections of any kind in Wall street or any place else. I do have a small investment in the company of which I was formerly the head.

"Without boasting, I think I am one of the few men ever nominated for president of the United States without a promise or obligation of any kind with anybody, either direct or indirect.

"I think that situation is due to my own belief and character. It may be the fact that nobody thought I would be nominated. Anyway, it is completely true. It is true today as the campaign opens and it will be true when the campaign closes."

Oil Activity In Gage Reported

. . . Leasing Near Adams

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Possibility of oil activity in Gage county was seen today in reports that landowners in northeastern Gage county near Adams are being asked to sign oil and gas leases.

Since discovery of oil last fall near Falls City, possibility of oil in Gage county has been discussed in this section.

According to the leases, providing the usual one-eighth royalty to the landowner, a group of Adams men are the lessees. No drilling plans, however, have been disclosed.

James Leslie, Civil War Veteran, Is Dead

BAYARD, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—James Leslie, 92, last of the North Platte valley's Civil war veterans, died here Friday of a paralytic stroke. Leslie enlisted for service in the 24th Iowa infantry at the age of 15 after coming to America as a baby with his mother from Dundee, Scotland, his birthplace.

Leslie's wife and four children all are dead. Funeral services will be held here Sunday afternoon.

Wymore Man Hurt In Collision Near Scene of Fatal Accident

Less than 18 hours after two men were killed in an automobile accident near Waverly, another man received serious injury at almost the identical spot.

Thomas M. Archer, 27, of Wymore, suffered a broken knee and a bruised forehead at 6:30 Friday evening when the car which he was driving crashed into the rear of one driven by D. H. Headley, 41, of Greenwood.

Headley told State Highway Patrolman Hailey that he had slowed down to view the scene of the previous accident when he sighted Archer's approaching machine in his rear view mirror. He tried to pull away but was unable to pick up enough speed to avoid the collision.

Edwin Phares, 22, of Guide Rock, who was riding with Archer, suffered a cut on the chin which required four stitches.

Archer was taken to Lincoln General hospital. Dr. Fritz Teal said the compound fracture of his knee cap will keep him in the hospital for about 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Headley were considerably shaken up but not seriously hurt.

A RED FLAG AND A RED HERRING

WENDELL WILLKIE'S contribution to an understanding of the French collapse is provocative if not enlightening. The republican presidential nominee said the French fell because they had erected a "candy stick government."

Could it be that Mr. Willkie was thinking of another country when he uttered those words—thinking possibly of a presidential campaign—and thinking of his overwhelming ambition to plant his feet under the president's desk in the executive offices of the White House.

Whatever he was thinking is about as clear as a London fog. Just before the French collapse in a signed article transmitted to newspapers by NEA, Mr. Willkie was quoted as saying Uncle Sam should be fighting shoulder to shoulder with the British and the French. But that was before Mr. Willkie discovered France had a "candy stick" government.

Even so stout an advocate of Mr. Willkie's as the Kansas City Star furnishes a much more plausible explanation of the French collapse.

The Star says:

"The well known French correspondent Pertinax discussed the matter (French collapse) in some detail after he reached London. Marshall Petain, he said, was obsessed with the fear of a communist revolution. The latest confirmation comes from an anonymous neutral observer. A man of international reputation, he was in France throughout the war and was in Paris when the news of the armistice came. France, he says, entered the war divided because the upper classes still persisted in regarding Hitler as the bulwark against Bolshevism and so were bitterly opposed to war with Germany. This spirit permeated the officers who came from those classes. In the middle of June this observer, traveling over France, found the peasants 'grim about the war' but in a fashionable Paris restaurant the night after Petain asked for the armistice many persons were rejoicing as if France had won. They figured their property would be safe under Hitler's protection."

And then the Star adds that the hostility of many rich families to the war cannot be the full explanation of what happened, and it can't.

* * *

BUT isn't it an ironical reflection that the wealthy people of France, that many rich French families, looked upon Hitler as their bulwark against the spread of Bolshevism? Had they read of what happened to Czechoslovakia's gold? Did they know of the fate of conquered countries? Did they know that even in Germany their bulwark against bolshevism actually has taken command of the property of individuals, has told factory owners what they can produce, what they must produce, how much they are to be permitted to make as a reward for their efforts and their investment, and then, as a crowning indignity they are permitted to "loan" their profits to the Nazi goverment? That isn't Bolshevism but it is Nazi-ism.

That isn't communism but it is something just as bad, just as repugnant, just as despicable to American thought and just as undesirable to the American way of living.

Hadn't these rich French families known that Hitler came into power to crush Germany under his supreme authority and to spread terror throughout the world because stupid German industrialists, quaking in their boots about communism, welcomed him and hoisted him to the place he now occupies in the belief he would save them.

* * *

THERE'S just a little bit of that in this country, naturally all unconsciously. How we hate communism, and we should. How we get all heated up and excited in the fear that communists are going to take over this country.

In some quarters there is sufficient evidence of jitteriness as to lead to the belief a business facism would be welcome. Our rich can see nothing in the developments of recent years that still gives America the precious heritage of a democracy, where men freely may speak their thoughts, may assemble at their will, may worship according to their conscience, and may think what they please. That wasn't accidental in this troubled world. That was the labor of a man at the head of this government who led this country through perilous times with every fundamental American right preserved. Some say he's a communist. Others, more moderate, say he's a radical. The fact remains that he's a democrat, the most vigorous advocate of democratic government in the world today, the man most feared by dictators and by totalitarian governments, and the man most gifted by political intuition of the most delicate character endowed with the genius for sensing those steps necessary for the preservation of democracy.

* * *

NOW Mr. Willkie isn't to be scolded because he's green. Mr. Willkie is to be pitied for his skimpy knowledge of foreign affairs. Mr. Willkie, the same as Colonel Lindbergh, will strengthen himself and will advance his campaign by refraining from touching upon the delicate affairs of a world gone topsy-turvy. Unfortunately Mr. Willkie can't. He's asking for it. He's asking the American people to entrust their affairs with him when the best that he can do is to lay the defeat of France to the observation that it collapsed because of a candy stick government.

France collapsed because it had a formidable class of communists, and an equally formidable class of quaking rich families, who did not want war and who were stupid enough to look upon Hitler as their bulwark against communism and bolshevism. They will pay for it in tears, in the loss of liberties, and finally in the loss of property for which they were willing to sacrifice even their liberty. France collapsed because it had an inept military revealing an appalling lack of preparation; disastrous stupidity in the high command and apathy in the ranks. France collapsed because apparently the upper class influence affected enough politicians to weaken the war effort although at no time was there adequate evidence of the danger of a communist coup inside France. The candy stick government was done by a candy stick rich class willing to embrace Hitler and to plant a kiss upon his cheek in courtly French style.

That Missouri Race

IT will take an official count, possibly, to determine the outcome of the senatorial contest in Missouri between Governor Stark and Senator Truman, the latter with the backing of the democratic organization in Kansas City and St. Louis.

With the count virtually complete, except for the mail vote less than 8,000 ballots separated Senator Truman in the lead and Governor Stark. Trailing behind was 'Tuck' Milligan, probably the ablest of the three men, with an excellent record of public service behind him.

It was Milligan's failure, not Stark's defeat, which constitutes a depressing feature of the Missouri primary. It would indicate also the old political friendship between Senator Bennett Clark and Milligan is at an end. But the aggregate vote in Missouri by contrast with the ballots polled by the republicans indicates no weakening of strength in the democratic party there.

DIET AND HEALTH

DOCTOR SAYS MUCH OWED TO INVENTION OF REFRIGERATION

In our American climate the invention of the refrigerator was inevitable. It seems astonishing that our grandfathers endured existence in our summers without them. But they went without screens, electric fans, soft shirts, summer clothing of any kind, to say nothing of automobiles and air conditioning units.

The automatic refrigerator makes for a drier atmosphere, because as the air circulates inside it absorbs moisture and deposits it in the coils. Liquids should be covered in the electric type refrigerator and cheese, boiled ham and other foods which dry out easily should be wrapped in wax paper. Berries keep better if placed unwashed on a flat tray without covering. Meats should not be washed before being refrigerated. A good refrigerator not only keeps food preserved with a low bacterial count, but also removes odors.

First aid test for vacationists. (Answers later in next week's articles):

Suppose you enter a filling station or restaurant and find a man lying on the floor too weak too move, with white clammy skin and feeble pulse and breathing. Will you give him a stimulant? Cover him with a blanket? Use artificial respiration? Put ice on his head? or what?

If you are the first person to arrive at the scene of an automobile wreck, and find the driver thrown from the car and unable to move on account of pain in the back what injury will you suspect? What will do do for the patient?

If a child comes to you rubbing his eye and says the wind blew something in it, will you tell him to rub towards the nose or away from it? Rub the other eye?

If you get a cut or bruise what treatment will you give? Where are the two places on the body where boils are most dangerous?

Vacation Diet for Underweights.

With a balanced, full diet, adequate in respect to vitamins, protein and minerals, studies on a group of underweights over a period of eleven weeks showed an average weight gain of 2 pounds per week. The underweight who is trying to gain should slow up on all tiring exercises and learn to relax, sleep more at night, ride rather than walk and eat more food. The groups of foods to emphasize are (1) meats, milk and eggs, (2) fruits and vegetables, some uncooked, (3) fats, cream, butter, salad dressings, gravies, (4) sweets, desserts, candies, cakes.

Sample Diet.

Breakfast: Fruit, cereal with cream; lamb chop with bacon, toast and butter, coffee with cream.

Lunch: Bottle of beer, omelette, bread and butter, salad with French dressing, cheese and crackers, glass of milk.

Dinner: Cream soup, fish garnished with prasley, potatoes, lima beans, bread and butter, ice cream with chocolate sauce, coffee with cream and sugar.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The End of a Comedy

He has no heart who e'er can gain
Some pleasure from another's pain.
—Old Mother Ntaure.

Farmer Brown's boy hadn't had so much fun for a long time. At his feet lay Unc' Billy Possum apparently dead. Two or three feet away lay Bluffer the Adder apparently dead. Yet neither was dead and Farmer Brown's boy knew this. Moreover neither was hurt. Both were bluffing. They were pretending to be dead, hoping that it would fool Farmer Brown's boy and he would go away and leave them. On his part Farmer Brown's boy had been bluffing, pretending that he was going to hurt them. It had been fun to see them pretend. He had laughed and laughed.

Now he had stopped laughing. It had come over him that what had been fun for him might not have been fun for Bluffer and Unc' Billy. He looked down at the two little people lying there at his feet. Had they been really dead they could not have looked more so. And suddenly it popped into his head that so far from having any fun out of trying to fool him they probably were suffering at that very moment—suffering from fright. You know it is possible to suffer from fright quite as much as from pain, perhaps more. He tried to put himself in the place of Unc' Billy Possum.

"The old rascal thinks he is fooling me, but just the same he must be dreadfully frightened," said he, talking to himself. He often does that when he is alone. "Yes, sir, he must be shaking inside with fear. And it probably is the same way with Bluffer there. To them I'm a giant too big for them to fight and from whom they can't run away. They have been smart enough to learn that the dead usually are left alone. So they have pretended to be dead and all the time have hoped that I would leave them alone and go off. But I haven't gone and they know it. They know I am still here and they must be wondering what I will do next, and afraid, dreadfully afraid. I would be if a giant I thought was an enemy had me in his power, even though I thought I had fooled him. Here I have been having fun, and they have all the time probably been frightened half to death. It is queer that I never have thought of it that way before, but I never have. I'm sorry. Truly I am."

He picked up Bluffer by the tail. Bluffer hunk limp and lifeless. "I suppose you are more scared than ever," said Farmer Brown's boy, "but you needn't be. You are a lot safer than you know. If I should leave you so near that old rascal you were trying to bluff a few minutes ago I am afraid you wouldn't live long. So I'll just take you away where you will at least be able to keep out of his way."

So Farmer Brown's boy continued down the Lone Little Path through the Green Forest, until he came to a rocky ledge where there were many loose stones, and cracks in the rocks. There he gently put Bluffer down on the ground. He put him down on his stomach, but in a flash Bluffer had rolled over on his back. Farmer Brown's boy laughed aloud.

"So," said he, "you think you must be on your back to look really dead. Well, I guess you are right at that. Thanks for a most amusing experience. Now I won't worry you any more."

He turned and walked away. He stepped behind a big tree and looked back. In a few minutes Bluffer rolled over, lifted his head for a look around, then glided into a crack in the ledge. He was safe.

Farmer Brown's boy started back home, whistling as he walked. When he came to the log where he had left Uncle Billy Possum there was no Possum there. He hadn't expected there would be. "Unc' Billy probably thinks he fooled me and is home telling Mrs. Possum how smart he is," saaid he.

And that is just what Unc' Billy was doing. "Ah done fool him so he thought Ah was daid and went off and left me," he chuckled.

Old Mrs. Possum sniffed. "Yo'all wasn't smart, jes' lucky," said she.

And of course Ol' Mrs. Possum was right. It might have been someone else whom Unc' Billy had met, someone without the understanding heart of Farmer Brown's boy.

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

SUCCESS.

'Tis part of the code that a man must be
Honest and kind and clean,
For what is the good of his skill if he
Is bitter and harsh and mean?
And what is the worth of the prize he earns
If after the night comes down
Nobody rejoices, as he returns
From the care of the busy town?

It isn't enough to be shrewdly wise
Or clever of hand or strong.
The lasting joy of a lifetime lies
In friendship and mirth and song.
Unless something of love and kindness clings
To the triumphs a man may win
The gains he makes are pitiful things
And selfish and cold as sin.

There's little pride in a brain, all-smart.
Mere cunning and strength are cold.
Man must be more than a fighting heart
And more than a killer cold.
He must grace with character all his deeds.
Be honest and clean and kind,
For the life successful also needs
The triumphs of heart and mind.

Calling All Dogs

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

A NON-STOP FIGHT

Two of my oldtime collie chums were Wolf and Chaeroplane. At early dusk one evening, they were galloping home ahead of me, from a long hike. Trying to pass Chaeroplane at a twist in the narrow path, Wolf bumped his shoulder, throwing him painfully off his stride. Instantly, Chaeroplane flew at him. The next moment a very vehement dog-fight was in progress.

I shouted to them, and ran forward. Neither dog had been in a "murder rage." At my shout, both stopped fighting. But,, Chaeroplane was gripping Wolf's throat and did not let go at my command. The dogs backed away from each other as far as possible and stood head to head. Chaeroplane still held his throat grip. Each dog's tail began to wag, as in amusement.

Now these were utterly new tactics in my long experience in dogfights. I tried to pry Chaeroplane's jaws loose from his adversary's throat. Then I understood. As he had lunged for the throat, his two long curved lower eye-teeth had hooked themselves firmly under Wolf's thin round collar, nor could he get free by backing away. If they had been fighting alone in a forest, both might well have died of starvation, in that crazy throat-hold.

Casual Slaughters

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY: At the post theater Adam and Kay meet the chaplain who has just been released from the hospital. Both realize that his amusing plight has ruined his career.

Chatper 12.
ON THE BEACH.

Saturday morning we could not ride for some reason described to me simply as "inspection." I did not question it too closely. I put in the extra time at my typewriter, expecting Julia and half dreading a repetition of Friday's painful encounter. But she did not arrive until eleven o'clock, and then she did not come in, just sat in the car outside my window and honked.

I dropped what I was doing and went out to her, thankful enough for a respite.

"Come for a drive," she begged, so I got in beside her.

The car was a convertable coupe. She drove it wide open and burning the wind. My hair would be in a thousand snarls, but I did not protest, knowing that she was running away from the thought of Jeff.

"This is Mimi's car," she said presently. "Dan gave it to her when we first come here. I can usually have it in the daytime. Mimi's moody. Dan goes out two or three nights a week to some stag affair and she takes her car and drives for hours by herself."

"Do you think she's happy?" I ventured.

"Who is?"

She uttered a mirthless laugh.

"Which reminds me, we're reveling tonight—beach party. You're invited. Hope it proves better than last night's fray, which was a bore. Oh, and wait till you see what we've got! It just happened in to see its friend Sandra, and it's too cute for words. . . ."

I saw what she meant that night. It was a man. A dark, thickset man with a little mustache and a stagey sort of good looks. He bowed over my hand and murmured "Chawmed."

Then he threw back his bathrobe to display his trunk-clad form and swelled a hairy chest.

We were all visibly impressed. Julia clasped her hands and gazed at him with starry eyes. Adam let his jaw sag in unpleasant resemblance to an idiot child. Gerald Beaufort inhaled until his face was scarlet and seemed about to pin his shoulders together in the back.

"The word is virile," said Felicia Bridewell irrepressibly in my left ear.

Only Sandra, Jeff and the chaplain seemed unamused. Jeff, in fact, glowered; or at least I thought so at the time. He was so somber normally that it was difficult to tell when he was actually displeased. He peeled off his sweat shirt, rolled it into a tight ball, tossed it on the sand and marched deliberately into the lake. I should not have been surprised to see him wade out until his head was immersed, but he jackknifed suddenly and reappeared swimming with vicious strokes that seemed to reach for and clutch the far horizon.

I thought for a moment that Julia was going to follow him but with an effort that was obvious to me, at least, she turned her back to the lake and began rearranging the baskets and bottles which we had unloaded from the cars.

"Go on and swim," she said to all offers of assistance. "We won't eat for a long time yet, and I'd advise everyone to swim before they start eating. We don't want any casualties. . . ."

We had penetrated deep into the reservation for this party. Like the mossy old joke, we had turned in at the road marked OFFICIAL VEHICLES ONLY, passed the sign that read VISITORS NOT ALLOWED BEYOND THIS POINT and parked next to POSITIVELY NO ADMITTANCE. Adam had replied vaguely to my questions. 8he sign, he said, had something to do with summer maneuvers, which were concluded; but they also preserved the reservation from casual picnickers and resultant brush fires.

A hundred feet from the road was the lake, rimmed by a clean white beach as far as you could see in either direction, interrupted only, in the immediate foreground, by the wreck of an old coal barge that had been cast up to the water's edge by one of the storms that periodically convulse the Great Lakes.

Perceptibly Nervous.

We climbed onto it when we had tired of swimming and sat, wet and cool and contented, swinging our legs over the shallow water that lapped at the weatherbeaten hull and sampling the contents of one of the big thermos bottles.

It was still daylight, though the sun had gone down behind us and a big moon had ballooned up out of the lake and was already high in the sky. A heavenly sense of well being came over me. Even the two strange little men beside me seemed expressly provided for my amusement.

I don't know why the chaplain had let himself get so near to me. It must have been an oversight, for he was still perceptibly nervous in my company. He addressed most of his remarks to Sandra, on his other side who, I gathered from their conversation, was responsible for his public appearance. I heard her ask him encouragingly if he wasn't glad she had insisted on his coming, and wasn't it fun?

"Most delightful," he agreed, managing what looked too painful to be classed as a smile. His face was still pretty awful, and his hands were encased in loose white cotton gloves because, I had heard him confide to someone, of the unpleasant ointment he had to use on them. The rest of his plump little figure was dressed in a khaki shirt and khaki slacks that were too long for him and had been turned up twice at the cuff. He had, of course, not been swimming. He looked rather like a wistful, stronge child who had not been accepted by the gang. I thought, under the circumstances, that his response to Sandra's question was nothing short of heroic.

I turned my attention to the man on my other side. Sandra called him Ivan, and that was all of his name that I ever knew Julia, it is true, had dubbed him Petrushki-Skivar, and I had heard her murmuring something to Gerald about the sons of the prophet being hairy and bold. She must have known his real name, but no one was sufficiently interested to inquire.

He was gazing now out across the lake, a long amber cigarette holder clamped like a pipe between his teeth and an overdone expression of dreamy detachment in his eyes.

"Swear not by the moon, th' inconstant moon," he declaimed suddenly in his quite phenomenal version of an English accent, and gave the yellow balloon that hung above the lake what amounted to a dirty look.

"I don't think swearing is very nice anyway, do you?" I asked him earnestly.

"I, ah, fancy Shakespeare meant it in another sense," he explained kindly. "Sandra tells me that you also write."

"You mean the Bard and I? Well, yes and no. The comparison is hardly fair. You see, Shakespears was all right in his time—"

Warning Glance.

It takes two to carry on that kind of a conversation. I saw that I was making a lamentable impression and changed my tactics.

"And you — are you a Thespian?"

I thought the word well chosen and so, apparently, did he. He expanded.

He raised his voice a little and Sandra and the chaplain stopped talking to listen.

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women in it merely players. They have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his time plays many parts. I have played, my parts as they came to me," he added modestly, but with an air of mystery which vaguely intrigued me. "I think I may say, nowever, that my vocation is more vital than treading the boards."

Perhaps he wanted to be coaxed; perhaps he merely paused to heighten the effect; perhaps he caught a warning glance from Sandra. I shall never know. Certinly he did not go on, and I had opened my lips to ask him the nature of this mysterious vocation when Sandra seized the conversation in both hands and made off with it.

"Did I tell you, Ivan, that I knew Chaplain Henry in Texas, when Mother and Father were alive? He—he was very kind."

Her voice broke and she looked volumes at the little chaplain. I thought he seemed acutely embarrassed.

"Yes," she went on more cheerfully, "when I learned that Chaplain Henry was here and would actually perform the marriage I could hardly believe my luck."

"Pleasure, I'm sure," muttered the little man awkwardly.

She smiled at him.

"I rushed right over to the hospital to make sure it was my Chaplain Henry, and you can imagine my shock when I saw him!" she smiled again, an affectionate smile. "You really must be careful, you know, not to get into any more poison oak. It's all around here."

Chaplain Henry looked over his shoulder. He seemed nervous.

"Not on the barge," I assured him.

"Juice of cursed hebenon," intoned Ivan and, flicking the butt from his cigarette holder, fell silent, gazing at the lake.

"And the wedding," Sandra went on calmly, "is less than three weeks away. I can't have you looking like a—like a——"

She paused tactfully, but my professional enthusiasm forced me to supply the missing simile.

"Like a spoiled tomato," I finished, and laughed immoderately.

"Ha, ha," said Chaplain Henry. "That's very good. Very good indeed."

"No, very bad. In fact, rotten," I said, and applauded myself with another gale of mirth.

"So bad," said Adam behind me, "that I'm going to duck you for it."

Corn Outlook Is Off 25 Per Cent

. . . Small Grain Better

The mark of drouth was on Nebraska's 1940 corn crop Saturday as the federal crop board in Washington slashed its estimate of this state's production 25 per cent as the result of July heat.

On July 1, the crop was forecast at 102,238,000 bushels with an acre yield of 17 bushels. On the basis of August 1 conditions the board estimated the production at 75,175,000 bushels, cutting the average acre yield to 12.5. Last year the crop totaled 82,032,000 bushels with a 12 bushel yield and the 10-year average, 1929-'38, was 149,599,000 bushels with a yield of 16.

A. E. Anderson, state and federal crop statistician here, explained July rains came too late to give south central corn fields much chance to produce grain.

In the extreme east and extreme western parts of the state, where the corn outlook is better, Anderson commented that the rains were spotted, giving a varied picture. "The fields," he said, "range from failures to excellent."

Small grain reports for August 1, however, showed improvement. The estimated winter wheat production increased from 26,523,000 bushels to 30,312,000 with the average acre yield jumping from 10.5 to 12. Oats advanced from 31,482,000 to 33,628,000, the yield going from an average of 22 to 23.5. Last year's winter wheat crop totaled 35,432,000 and oats 20,576,000 bushels.

August reports left the forecast for the potato crop unchanged from the July estimate of 6,560,000 bushels with an acre yield of 80.

Kansas 'Miracle' Wheat Doubles Dec. Forecast

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 10—(AP)—Any lingering doubts that Kansas' 1940 wheat crop was a "miracle" crop were dispelled by the official estimate placing the yield at 100,954,000 bushels. This means that nearly two bushels grew where only one was expected last December after a bad fall drouth. The December estimate was 55,000,000 bushels.

ROYAL, NEB. BOY WINS STATE TITLE FOR GOOD DRIVING

Jack Francisco, 16-year-old high school student of Royal, Neb., has been named Nebraska's champion driver by the judges in the Ford Good Drivers league national good driving contest. As a result, young Francisco will get a trip to the New York world's fair the week of August 26 to compete in the national finals for one of 48 scholarships ranging from $100 to $5,000. Robert Luebs of Lincoln is Nebraska's second place winner and an alternate to Francisco.

Francisco won the Nebraska title from a wide field of high school age boys by scoring highest ratings in technical examinations on driving knowledge and in a 25-mile road test conducted by qualified observers. He also submitted a 300-word letter on "What I personally can do to reduce automobile accidents."

Third Term Favored

BOSTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—The Massachusetts Federation of Labor was on record today, by convention vote of 411 to 8, in favor of a third term for President Roosevelt. Heated debate preceded adoption of the resolution last night, and at one point, Walter Camerazzo of the Boston seafood handlers' local, was shouted down when he inquired whether only one man was qualified for the presidency and announced that he intended to vote for Wendell Willkie.

12,000 Attend Burwell Rodeo

BURWELL, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Secretary of State Harry Swanson spoke at the annual Burwell rodeo program here Friday, attended by an estimated 12,000 persons. Fritz Traun, Salinas, Calif., won the bronc riding contest.

Norman Pearson, Gonzales, Tex., nailed his animal in 7.6 seconds in the bulldogging contest, a near record.

State Hotelmen Ask Regulation Tourist Camps

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Uniform regulation of hotels, tourist camps and private homes catering to transients will probably be demanded of the next legislature by Nebraska hotelmen, C. E. Heaney, Omaha, secretary of the state hotelmen's association, said today following a regional meeting here.

Heaney said the hotelmen had authorized their legislative committee headed by A. Q. Schimmel, Lincoln, to study a proposal that present hotel regulation law be changed to include all those caring for transients.

Plans for a $25,000 advertising campaign, to be launched next month and continued for a year, were discussed. Most of the advertising will be placed within the state, Heaney said.

Improvement In Business Shown In 5-County Area

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Improved business conditions were reflected in figures released today for the fiscal year by Robert Klein, district supervisor of the state employment service.

Private employment placements showed a gain of 17 per cent over the corresponding 1938-39 period with 615 placed this year compared to 507 a year ago. Total placements were 1,394 in 1939-40 compared to 1,400 in 1938-39.

The loss was due to substantial reductions in public employment, Klein said. Public placements were 799 last year and 893 the year before. In addition 229 less applications were received.

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Two little girls were discussing the relative merits of their older sisters. One of them said, "Aw, my sister's lots older than yours and she's lots prettier and smarter too." The other one said: "You're silly, you don't even know how old either Anne or Jean is and neither do I but my mother said Jean and Anne's ages now, added together, equal sixty years. Jean is twice as old as Anne was when Jean was half as old as Anne will be when Anne is three times as old as Jean was when Jean was three times as old as Anne." How old are Anne and Jean now?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler.

The golf competitors finished in this order: 1. Davis. 2. Evans. 3. Ball. 4. Case. 5. Allen.

Here's A Man Who Saves His Pennies

Two detectives of the Lincoln police force were amused Friday as they witnessed the conduct of a man trying to avoid the restrictions of the new parking meters.

A man and his wife drove into a space close to the parked cruiser, both got out and the woman went into a nearby shop. The man walked up to the meter, took out a penny, and held it to the slot but did not put it in.

For ten minutes, he stood holding the penny as if about to deposit it and constantly looking in all directions. Then his wife reappeared, he put the coin back into his pocket, and they drove away.

No arrest was made, the officers said, because they considered the situation comical.

AMERICAN SECURITY CONFERENCE FORMS LOCAL UNIT HERE

A group of WPA and unemployed workers numbering 25 met Friday evening at 1133 M street and formed a permanent organization as the local unit of the American Security Conference, which will hold a nation-wide convention in Chicago, August 19, 20 and 21.

Named delegates to the convention were Hank Giebelhaus, Joel Allen, and Ben J. Hogan. Giebelhaus is temporary chairman and will remain in that post until after the national gathering. Next meeting of the group will be Thursday, August 15, 8 p. m., at 1133 M street.

KEARNEY TO BE SITE STATE SCOUT SWIM

(Special to The Star.)

KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 10—Following a conference here, Roy Ridegeway of Lincoln announced that the first annual Boy Scout council swim would be held in Kearney, August 22.

As there are fifty-five counties represented in the council, with a membership of more than 3,500 Boy Scouts, it is believed that approximately 1,000 or more Scouts would enter the swim. Preceding the council swim, seven district contests or swims will be held over the state.

Stock Favorites Up Fractions To Point Or So

Mild Rallying Hue To Shares

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(AP)—Quiet strength of selected industrials gave stocks a mild rallying hue in today's market.

While many leaders loafed throughout the brief session, favorites managed to tack on further recoveries of fractions to a point or so.

Buying flurries occasionally lifted volume and transfers for the two hours were around 175,000 shares.

Brokers said the carry-over of bidding from yesterday's improved performance was inspired largely by the belief of market students that the recent drying up of selling was a sign the list was due for a turn-about even if only temporarily.

War developments and the tax questions remained as restraining speculative factors. So far as the latter was concerned, however, Wall street seemed to be coming around to the idea congress would quickly push through a revenue measure with more liberal provisions for corporations as a means of breaking the bottleneck which manufacturers claim has been impeding the defense program. Business news, on the whole, was more careful than otherwise.

Bonds and commodities were narrowly irregular.

Among the stocks accorded support were Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Briggs, Mfg., Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Great Northern, Sperry, Westinghouse, International Paper common and preferred, White Sewing Mecnine, Kennecott, Western Union and Baldwin Locomotive.

In a sluggish curb prices were a shade uneven. Up a trifle now and then were Cities Service, Republic Aviation and Lake Shore.

Boardrooms expressed interest in the summary of the New York stock exchange revealing the short position as of July 31 advanced to 479,243 shares from 446,957 on June 28.

The big war department order for tanks granted Baldwin Locomotive again proved an aid to this concern's stock. Anaconda shares failed to get far out in front but they held their own on word federal authorities had contracted with this company for 240,000 long tons of concentrated manganese as part of rearming plans.

Motors were bolstered by predictions production of new 1941 models would soon get under way at a rapid rate. Estimates of new passenger car registrations for June pnut the aggregate at nearly 31 per cent over that of the like month in the previous year.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(AP)—The free British pound reacted 1⅛ cents to 3.97 today after yesterday's sharp runup to within only a few cents of the official Bank of England price.

Fresh pressure also developed against the Hongkong and Shanghai dollars, both down around .15 of a cent.

Other major units traded in the foreign money market were unchanged, including the Canadian dollar at 87 U. S. cents and the Swiss francs.

Late rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents.)

CANADA—Official Canadian control board rates for U. S. dollars: Buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent.

Canadian dollar in New York open market 13 per cent discount, or 87 00 U. S. cets.

EUROPE—Great Britain official (bankers foreign exchange committee rates), buying $4 02, selling $4.04; open market, cables, 3.97; Germany 40 05n; (benevolent), 18 25; Finland 2.05n; Greece, 68; Hungary 19.50n; Italy 5.05; Portugal 3.82; Rumania 52n; Sweden 23.85; Switzerland 22.74; Yugoslavia 2 35n.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(AP)—

COTTON—Futures had an irregular trend today following the new cotton loan announcement. Final prices were 6 points lower to 6 higher.

With near months under heavy pressure of liquidation and transfering to forward deliveries, it generally was felt in the trade that the price of nearby deliveries had discounted the new loan rate. Forward positions were more attractive.

Bombay accounts bought heavily in May and July. The same interests also transfered from October and December to late deliveries.

Turnover was the heaviest in recent weeks.

The range follows: Close: Oct. $9.30; Dec., $9.21; Jan., $9.14n; March $9.13; May $8.94n; July $8.77.

Middling spot $10.07n.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(AP)—Broomhall estimates that the surplus of wheat remaining in Argentine now for export totals only 15,859,000 bushels, compared with 138,042,000 a year ago; corn at 257,113,000 bushels, compared with only 69,757,000 bushels last year.

Lamson Bros. & Co. had the following from Brookings, S. D.: Our corn crop took a bad beating last week from the continued high temperatures and dry weather Right around Brookings, we still have a good corn crop, but taking the state as a whole, we are not going to produce as much corn as last year. Threshing just getting under way and believe the small grain crop better than anticipated."

Thompson & McKinnon had a report from Buenos Aires that since July 27 there had been a drop in temperatures and that the weather now is dry, frosty and favorable for the wheat crop in general. Some farmers are working in the fields attempting to complete wheat sowings. It is now late for such sowings and very favorable wather will be necessary to recult in a crop. This, of course, is spring wheat.

Most Of Loss In Grains Recovered

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 10—(AP)—The official government crop report yesterday was optimistic as to the size of the 1940 grain crops and prices on the board of trade today dropped sharply at the start.

Later, however, most of the losses were recovered when orders to purchase at stated levels were uncovered by the declining markets. Net changes for the day were not great. Trade was slow, as has been the custom lately.

Rains over large sections of the corn belt depressed corn more than the crop report. The moisture was needed in dry areas.

Corn finished ¼ to ½ cent below yesterday's finish, September 61c, December 56⅛@56c, wheat unchanged to ¼ cent up, September 73⅞@74c, December 74⅞@75c, oats ¼ to ⅜ cent off, and lard 2 points lower to 3 higher.

Surprise at the official government crop report issued late yesterday and good overnight rains in drouth areas of the corn belt served to depress grain prices today.

Trade was more active at the start than for several days, but the selling encountered support after declines of a cent had been registered in wheat and corn and trade slowed down considerably.

The trade was surprised because the official estimates were much larger than had been anticipated in the small grains, and also because the heat and drouth had failed to cut down the expected corn crop as much as expected.

The official estimate that corn production had been cut an estimated 7 per cent was a far cry from the trade guesses which had ranged as high as 25 per cent.

Good overnight rains in Illinois and indications of rain in Ohio and Indiana, all three states having been afflicted with heat and drouth, also served to depress the corn market.

Declines in May and December wheat pulled those options down to the lowest levels of the season. Oats were weakened by the heavy estimated crop and the May delivery dropped to the lowest levels of the season.

Lard and soy beans, both subject to pressure in recent days, were steady at the start. Rye was unchanged.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(AP)—Buyers picked over a small assortment of rail and industrial bonds at fractionally higher prices today.

While the market as a whole leaned to the topside, enough minus signs cropped out by the start of the last hour to give a spotty appearance.

Trade in the foreign list was highlighted by sale of 7 French stamped 7s of '49 at 70, a jump of 24¾ points from the last sale on July 12, Queensland 7s advanced more than 3 and Australia 5s also improved.

Favored in the corporate section were such liens as nickel plate 5½s, Firestone tire 3½s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s, Armour of Deleware 4s of '55 and U. S. steel 2.56s.

Trimmed a notch were International telephone 5s, St. Paul 5s, southern railway 4s and Illinois Central 4¾s.

Gladys Puts Fred On Spot; Submerges Love For Defense Of U. S.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(INS)—Gladys went on record today as definitely in favor of compulsory military service, and so advised Fred in no uncertain terms.

A "personal" in the classified advertising section of a Chicago newspaper yesterday read:

"GLADYS: Conscription passes—you lose me for a yr. Protest to your senator now.

"FRED."

Gladys' answer, appearing today, read:

"FRED: Are you man or mouse? A country worth living in is worth fighting for. Don't be a panty waist.

"GLADYS."

Which apparently left it up to Fred and congress.

Sir Abe Bailey Dead

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)—Sir Abe Bailey, South African financier, politician and sportsman whose picturesque rise to fame and fortune began in the Transvaal gold rush of the 1880s, died today in Capetown, a Reuters dispatch from South Africa reported.

Total federal tax on a package of 20 cigarets now is 6.5 cents.

Hogs At Omaha Around Steady

(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—

HOGS—Salable, 200; total, 900; nominally steady but about in line with Friday's close; top, $6.25; 200-260 lbs., $5.90@6.25; few 260-300 lbs., $5.50@60; good sows, $4.50@5.25. Compared with Friday last week. Barrows and gilts unevenly steady to 50 cents higher; sows 10 to 45 cents up; stags steady; feeder 25 cents higher.

CATTLE—Salable and total, 250. For week: Fed steers, yearlings, strong to mostly 25 cents higher; instances 25 to 40 cents up on good to choice yearlings and light steers; shestock and bulls strong to 25 cents higher; vealers steady to strong; stockers and feeders strong to 25 cents higher. Bulks for week: Fed steers and yearlings, $9.75@11.00; numerous loads choice light steers and medium weights, $11.10@25; choice 1,186 lbs., $11 40; choice 996 and 1,093 lbs., $11.50; fed heifers, $9.25@10.50; beef cows, $5.25@7.25, canners and cutters, $3.75@5.00; sausage bulls, $5.75@6.50; fleshy feeders, $9.65; few loads stock heifers, $8.00@9.00.

Closing bulks: Range spring lambs, $9.50@65; closing top, $9.65; native spring lambs, $9.50@65; fed clipped spring lambs, $8.25@50; fed yearlings, $7.50@85; range feeding lambs, $8.25@50; week's top, $8.65; short-term breeding ewes, $3.00@4.00; solid-mouth ewes to $4.60; yearling ewes, $7.00@75.

Chicago Livestock

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(AP)—

Livestock trading was a nominal affair today. Only a few head of hogs were on sale at mostly steady prices. No cattle or sheep were offered.

The best hogs here sold at $6.70, but the top was quotable up to $6.85.

Ford, Lindbergs Confer On New Airplane Motor

DEARBORN, Mich., Aug. 10 — (AP)—Henry Ford, the motor magnate, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the noted flier, conferred for two days this week on the new airplane motor Ford plans to produce in mass quantities, it was learned today.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., and Henry's son, declared that Lindbergh inspected plans for the proposed 1,000 horsepower motor and indicated that Lindbergh had advanced several suggestions.

"Father invited Lindbergh to come to Detroit to talk about the motor," Edsel said.

This was the second time within a month that Lindbergh has invited Ford at his Dearborn home.

LOVELACE IS HELD AFTER FATAL FRAY

The negro was gone when the fugitives reached Glimp's farm and Lovelace told Fisher he apparently jumped out of the car after the Oilton gunfight.

Forcing Glimp to replace the wounded Hall behind the wheel, the gunmen speeded southward. As they crossed the Cimarron river bridge near Perkins, they were challenged by Highway Patrolmen John Boyd and J. R. Butler.

After a short chase the car was stopped. Glimp darted out and was shot in one leg. Hall and Lovelace came out with their hands high.

Hall, who escaped from the Oklahoma state prison at McAlester last July 7 while serving a 10-year term for burglary from Shawnee, was taken to a Stillwater hospital. His condition was reported dangerous.

Lovelace, who on July 26 fled the Nebraska state prison farm at Genoa where he was doing five years for forgery from Lincoln, was placed in jail at Stillwater.

Fisher said Lovelace related that he and Hall planned the restaurant robbery, leaving the woman in a field before the hold-up and going back for her afterward.

They met the negro when they went back for the woman, he added.

"He wanted to come along with us and he had a shotgun, so we took him," Fisher quoted the fugitive.

Place Hold Order.

Deputy Warden Neil Olson of the Nebraska penitentiary notified authorities at Sapulpa, Okla., that this state intends to claim custody of Lovelace in event prosecution is not intended there.

"The sheriff told me, however," Olson said, "that charges of murder, armed robbery and hijacking are pending against Lovelace and Hall."

The Oklahoma officers, he added, explained they hadn't had time to question Lovelace about possible participating in the robbery of the Hompes Tire company here July 27. The early morning holdup netted gunmen about $150.

"From what they told me," Olson continued, "the officer who was wounded is in pretty bad shape and there is doubt as to whether he will recover

Lovelace got away from the Genoa prison farm with another inmate, Carl Dickinson, 24, of whom no definite word has been had.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS CONTINUE ADVANCE

bombs rained on Italian anti-aircraft positions and troop columns in the Karrin pass area, just east of Hargeisa.

The British said all their planes returned.

Berbera Bombed.

ROME, Aug. 10—(AP)—Italian troops have passed Adueins in their drive toward the coast of British Somaliland, the high command announced today in a communique reporting also the bombing of Berbera, capital and chief port of the British colony, and damage to a British battleship.

"It has been ascertained," the communique said, "that the British battleship Resolution suffered serious damage, especially in the stern turret, in an air attack carried out by our bombing planes Aug. 1. A destroyer also was seriously damaged."

(An Italian communique Aug. 2 reported Italian air bombardment of a British naval squadron near Baleares islands Aug. 1 and said "a battleship" had been set afire and several other vessels damaged.)

War Bulletins

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—Revealing that 1,000 ships are engaged in shuttling food and war supplies between America and England, British purchasing commission officials today maintained the Germans haven't one chance in a thousand of starving the British isles by blockade.

To date, England has already received 2,900 planes from the United States while 8,100 planes are on order, it was revealed.

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)—A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Madrid reported a battle between British and Italian ships today several miles off the Baleares islands in the Mediterranean. Gibraltar authorities were said, however, to have disclaimed knowledge of the battle.

LONDON, Aug. 10—(INS)—Two crack squadrons of Curtiss pursuit planes have been salvaged and are ready to take the air alongside British airmen, it was revealed today at the headquarters of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, head of the French forces in Britain. The speedy American-made planes and their crews were salvaged from France and were brought to England.

MADRID, Aug. 10—(INS)—Fire swept through the huge British-owned cork factory at Algeicras today. Hundreds of workers, soldiers and police fought the blaze.

BRITISH AIRMEN SLASH AT REICH

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)—British bombers carried out day and night raids on the Guernsey airdrome in the German-occupied channel islands yesterday and started several fires, the air ministry announced tonight.

Night bombers also inflicted "heavy damage" on munitions factories in Germany, the British said.

A German seaplane base near Brest, France, also was attacked with damage to hangars and anti-aircraft batteries, and fires were started when oil tanks were hit at Flushing, in the Netherlands, the British reported.

Voters Say U. S. Should Prohibit Right To Strike

. . . IN DEFENSE PLANTS

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

(Director, American Institute of Public Opinion)

(Copyright, 1940)

PRINCETON, N. J.—As the wheels of America's national defense program begin to turn this summer in hundreds of U. S. factories, a nation-wide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion reveals that the great majority of voters would approve curbs on both labor and industry—if necessary—to insure the greatest possible efficiency in America's re-armament effort.

The survey indicates, first, that an overwhelming majority think steps should be taken to insure that there will be no damaging and delaying strikes in the national defense industries.

Secondly, although the public opposes further control of industry for purposes of reform, as shown in recent Institute tests, a substantial majority favor a greater degree of government regulation wherever it may be necessary in the interest of national defense.

"Should the government forbid strikes in industries manufacturing materials for our national defense, or should the workers in these industries continue to have the right to strike?" the Institute asked.

The replies of those with definite opinions on the question were:

SHOULD FORBID STRIKES 79%
SHOULD NOT FORBID 21%

Only one person in twelve (8%) said he was undecided or without an opinion.

"Inconnection with our national defense program," the Institue asked, "do you favor increasing or decreasing government regulation and control of industry?"

The national vote on the question was:

INCREASE CONTROL..63%
DECREASE CONTROL..20
MAKE NO CHANGE ...17

The vote by income groups on the two questions was:

	Prohibit Strikes? YES	NO
Upper Income Group	83%	17%
Middle Income Group	83	17
Lower Income Group	73	27

Control of Industry	Increase	Decrease	No Ch.
Upper Income Group	52%	28%	20%
Middle Income Group	63	19	18
Lower Income Group	73	12	15

ALTERNATE DRAFT PLAN IS REJECTED

American peacetime policy of voluntary enlistments.

He predicted that supporters would find it necessary to compromise the Burke-Wadsworth bill before they could obtain senate approval.

Some Sort of Draft Forecast.

This view was echoed in private by one administration strategist, who said he had no doubt that some sort of conscription bill would be voted by the chamber. He said it was "touch and go," however, whether the Maloney proposal or some similar compromise would be adopted.

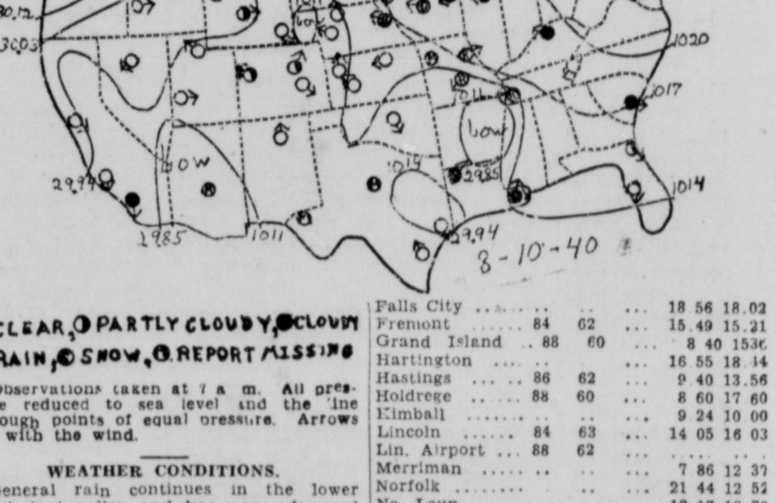

The senate will resume debate on the Burke-Wadsworth measure Monday after a week-end recess.

Senator Holman (R.-Ore.) excited the senate with an assertion that he had learned from "authoritative military sources" of "imminent peril of invasion of Alaska" and the "endangering of the entire Pacific slope."

Holman later explained to reporters that he was not referring to any immediate possibility of an invasion, but regarded Japan as the No. 1 threat to American peace and looked to Alaska as the most vulnerable point of attack.

Opposition senators were reported to be discussing the possibility of a referendum vote on conscription at the November election. Some of these senators said they were confident that given a chance to express its opinion at the polls, the country would show a majority sentiment against the draft.

Cudahy Defends Himself

. . . No Criticism Intended

Envoy Denies Recalled; Explains Remarks On Nazi Conduct

HESTON, Eng., Aug. 10—(INS)—Disclaiming any intention of criticizing Great Britain or her allies, John Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium, today defended himself against attacks resulting from statements he made at a London press conference earlier this week.

Cudahy replied to his critics in an exclusive interview with International News Service at Heston airdrome just before departing by plane for Lisbon, where he plans to ebmark aboard a clipper plane for the United States.

At the London press conference Cudahy had predicted famine in Belgium this winter and had stated that German soldiers there had conducted themselves better than American soldiers would have done under similar circumstances.

Today the American envoy said he had not meant his words as criticism of Britain and that he had not intended to praise Germany or reflect upon the conduct of American soldiers.

Denies Recalled to U. S.

Cudahy denied he had been "recalled" to Washington and declared he simply is en route home to report to his chiefs in the normal course of events. He added that he did not need disciplining in ambassadorial behavior.

Yesterday, through the state department, President Roosevelt summoned Cudahy home for "consultation" regarding the London press interview. On behalf of the government, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Wells repudiated views expressed in the press conference by Cudahy.)

Hinting that the incident may end his diplomatic career, Cudahy stated that the question of his future status must be decided by Washington. If he leaves the diplomatic service, he said, he intends to devote himself to Belgian relief work.

Eight Million Near Starvation.

"Having seen events in which 8,000,000 persons were brought to the verge of starvation, I could not remain wholly indifferent," he said.

"If I spoke critically regarding the food situtaion there, I meant it completely and I still mean it. It is not pleasant to contemplate a whole country in grave want.

"It has been very unfair of the British press to interpret my remarks regarding the Belgians and food as criticism of British conduct of the blockade.

"In speaking of the conduct of the German army in areas where no fighting occurred and where a simple occupation took place, I intended no praise of the German army and expressed no personal opinion. I simply said factually what had occurred.

"My reference to German conduct being better than that of American doughboys under similar circumstances was entirely jocular and I laughed when I said it. It was not a serious remark and was not intended as such. Certainly it was not a reflection on my own soldier boys. It may be remembered that for many months I was with the American army in the Russian campaign of 1919.

"What I sought to convey, but what now appears to have been misinterpreted, was simply that the Germans did not enter into the occupation as barbarians to commit atrocities.

"I did not mean taht American troops entering into an occupation would do anything they shouldn't do.

"I was simply trying to draw a standard of conduct and explain that German conduct was no worse than that of Americans under a similar standard set by American troops during the World war, which was exemplary."

Former Omahan Who Made A Hobby Of Boats Is Building Fleet U. S. Torpedo Craft

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 10—(AP)—A former Nebraskan who started building boats because nobody else could make them to do his tough assignments is building a litle fleet now for the biggest job of all—defending the United States.

The plant operated by Andrew J. Higgins, on one of New Orleans' main streets a mile from the waterfront, is creating a "mosquito fleet" of swift, deadly torpedo boats reportedly roughly designed by President Roosevelt himself.

As a boy in Omaha, Neb., Higgins noted how logs, sandbars and mudflats hindered operation of small boats and began thinking of ways to overcome those obstacles. Later, in the lumber business in Louisiana, he found he needed boats to go after logs in shallow bayous, filled with debris or water hyacinths.

Special Type Craft.

"Nobody could build them like we needed them," he said. "So we started building them ourselves. Soon people heard what we were doing, and we began building boats for others."

Higgins specialized in craft with hulls so constructed they would hurdle small sandbars, run unscathed over floating logs, plough through mud and plunge head-on upon a bank or seawall that afforded no easy landing. When Uncle Sam needed boats for defense, Higgins was ready for the job. Higgins will disclose no details regarding the craft.

However, he has completed at least two torpedo boats and since the last one was launched the navy has awarded him a contract of nearly $1,000,000 for "construction of an undisclosed number of small boats."

Born In Columbus.

Mr. Higgins was born in Columbus, Neb., about 45 years ago. He is the youngest son of Judge John J. Higgins, pioneer lawyer and newspaper publisher in Platte county. Mr. Higgins moved to Omaha at the age of four and left there when he was 20 to enter the lumber business in New Orleans. He returned to Nebraska last year and stopped off in Columbus to go over his old haunts.

No Difficulties In School Privileges for Refugee Children

. . . SEEN BY DIENST

Deputy State Supt. C. F. Dienst sees no legal difficulties in granting educational privileges to European refugee children should any be sent to Nebraska, he said Saturday.

He expressed his view in reply to inquiries received from J. W. Studebaker, federal commissioner of education at Washington, as to whether any educational problems would be involved in the placement of refugees by the United States committee for the care of European children.

Studebaker pointed out there may be thousands placed within the next few weeks in homes under supervision of sponsors who agree to assume full responsibility for the children.

Dienst cited a Supreme court ruling, which said:

"The school system of our state recognizes the vitally important fact that education is for all persons within such school age as has been fixed by the legislature."

Replying to specific questions posed by Studebaker, the state official set out:

1. In Nebraska, the determination of tuition charges for non-resident pupils rests with local authorities in all public schools.
2. A child under legal custody has all of the rights and privileges of a resident child.
3. Children under legal custody are enumerated in the local school census for apportionment of state funds, if present when the census is taken in June.

MISS BERTHA ENYEART FORMER TEACHER IN NEBRASKA, PASSES ON

Word has been received here of the death of Miss Bertha Enyeart, former Lincoln resident, at Boulder, Colo., Friday. She had taught in a number of Nebraska schools.

She is survived by three brothers, Loren of Hayes Center, Orley of Estes Park, Colo., and Carl of Colorado; and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Thompson and Mrs. W. J. Rupert, both of Lincoln. The body will be brought here Tuesday for funeral services and burial.

FOUR ARE HELD ON FEDERAL CHARGES

Luke Hoffman and Francis James Mason are in Lincoln city jail on a complaint by federal officers charging them with transporting a stolen car across state lines. Commissioner bonds of $1,500 were fixed, but not made.

Charles Henry is in jail in Omaha on a federal warrant charging violation of the Mann act. He allegedly transported a woman from Plattsmouth to Shenandoah, Ia., for immoral purposes. Bond was set by the commissioner at $1,000.

Henry Dixon is also held on a federal warrant, charging him with forgery and theft from a bank associated with the FDIC.

$5,000 Personal Injury Suit Is Filed Here

A suit for $5,000 for alleged personal injuries to Mrs. Jessie B. Rheuport suffered in a three-way auto collision March 2 was filed in District court Saturday.

Charles H. Rheuport, her husband, brought the action against Iva Heitkotter, Walter Mohr and Elizabeth M. Keriakedes, executrix of the estate of Alexander Keriakedes.

He said that Mrs. Rheuport was a guest in a car driven by Willard R. Burns which was struck by Alexander Keriakedes' car after the latter collided with a machine driven by Mohr.

55 Million Church Members In America; 256 Denominations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP)—The census bureau today listed 256 religious denominations in the United States, with 55,807,366 members.

This count—nearly half the population—was based on 1936 statistics, which have just been completed. The count was made by correspondence with officers of the different denominations.

The membership total was about a million larger than a similar count in 1926, which showed 54,576,346. No major shifts were shown among major religious branches, however.

Economies forced on churches by the depression, while not shown in membership figures, were demonstrated by a $518,953,571 calculation of total church expenditure in 1936. In 1926, the total was $817,214,528.

Value of church edifices also dropped from $3,839,500,610 in 1926 to $3,411,875,467 in 1936.

$ The largest single denomination was Roman Catholic with 19,914,937 members.

Other large denominations included: Jewish, 4,641,184; negro Baptists, 3,782,464; Methodist Episcopal church, 3,509,763; southern Baptist convention 2,700,155; Methodist Episcopal church, south 2,061,683; Presbyterian church in the United States of America, 1,797,927; Protestant Episcopal church, 1,735,335; Northern Baptist convention, 1,329,044; United Lutheran church in America, 1,286,612; Disciples of Christ, 1,196,315; Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, 1,192,553; and Congregational and Christian churches, 976,388.

Says, Willkie, F.D.R., Both Popular Choices

Both the republican and democratic national conventions chose the men the "rank and file" wanted for president, Frank L. Williams told members of the Interprofessional Institute at the Lincoln hotel Saturday.

At first, he said, events at Philadelphia seemed like a "machine movement," but Nebraskans who wired home for details found that the Willkie boom was a spontaneous demand.

Speaking of the democratic convention, Williams said that a worker for Mayor Kelly of Chicago used the auditorium's loud-speaker system to fill the hall with "We Want Roosevelt." No one could find out where the "voice" came from, he added, and it was discovered only by accident. The Kelly machine, Williams asserted, was "very much in evidence," and there was a great deal of feeling among the delegates against Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, manager of the Roosevelt movement.

Harry Spencer, delegate to the republican meeting, spoke briefly, declaring it was "unfortunate there was so much pressure from home" for Willkie and that several hundred congressmen came to Philadelphia to block Willkie's nomination. Now, he added, they are lined up behind him.

SPECIAL PATROL ON NO. 30 PLANNED

Beginning Aug. 20 the state highway patrol will maintain a fleet of 16 motorcycles on the Lincoln highway from Omaha across the state in an effort to reduce the accident toll during the heavy traffic months of September and October.

Besides the motorcycles, 16 patrol cars will "work" along the highway. The accident preventative drive is made possible mainly through the increase in size of the patrol from 47 to 67 officers.

F Street Baby Show Is Success

The F street baby show Friday night was said by recreation authorities to be one of the most successful ever held there. There were 56 of the little tots—as healthy and as charming a lot of tiny tots as one will ever see.

And were their brothers and sisters, themselves only slightly older, proud of them. From the time the show got under way until it was over, the older children, and not a few of the older folks as well, stood around their faces beaming, and eyes shining with happiness.

Robert George Dreith, 3 months old, and the youngest entry was one of the centers of attraction. So were Dick and Deck, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hilligoss.

For the purpose of judging, the babies were divided into three age classifications: Up to 1½ years; from 1½ to 3½; and from 3½ through 5½ years old. The judges were a group of teachers.

After the weighing and measuring, the little tots were given candy, toy balloons, souvenirs, and booklets containing records of the judges. Miss S. Adelia Winter was in charge of the show.

Crossing Complaint

Frank Kuell of Martell, complained to the state railway commission Saturday that two Rock Island railroad crossings, one private, the other public, are not being properly maintained in the town. Commission attaches said they would contact Rock Island officials about it.

UTILITY FINANCE PLAN APPROVED

The state railway commission Saturday approved a re-finance plan submitted by the Northwestern Public Service company of Huron, S. D. The plan reduces from 5 to 4 per cent the interest charges on $6,000,000 worth of bonds and gives the company authority to issue $500,000 worth of short-term serial notes. By the shift, the company expects to save about $100,000 annually in interest charges.

Infant Injured In Fall From High Chair

Sharon Kidney, 10-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Kidney, 4020 St. Paul, was reported in satisfactory condition at Bryan Memorial hospital Saturday afternoon by Dr. L. V. Gibson. She fell from a high chair several days ago, and was hospitalized Friday for treatment of an abscess which developed from injuries in the fall.

'Ambulance Chasing' Term Too Vague, Says Basye Brief

Lee Basye, Lincoln attorney, urged the Supreme court in briefs submitted Saturday to dismiss the ambulance chasing disciplinary action brought against him by the Nebraska State Bar association.

"The term 'ambulance chasing' is vague and indefinite," his briefs said. "Its application is apt to depend upon the frame of mind of the person who uses the term."

Basye's counsel added, "there is no evidence in this case that Lee Basye is a disreputable practitioner."

Two More N. U. Degrees

Two additional summer sesion degree are announced by the University of Nebraska. William Joseph Bingen of Lincoln received his Master of Arts degree, and Kenneth Eugene Drown of Seward received the degree Doctor of Dental Surgery.

Abel Firm Is Low On Paving Project

Bids on a paving and two resurfacing districts were opened by the city engineers Saturday, along with offers to supply two automatic signal lights for the police department, to be installed at Twenty-fifth and O streets. Contracts probably will be awarded by the council Monday.

The paving will be Tenth street from Sumner to Plum. The resurfacing will be Tenth from O to N, and G to J streets. The Abel Construction Co. was low on each, as follows:

Paving—Abel, $8,264.55; Cochrane Construction Co., $8,355.30.

Resurface N to O—Abel, $3,620.20; Cochrane, $3,700.

Resurface G to J, Abel, $3,900; Cochrane, $3,973.

Only 12½ feet on each side of the street, will be assessed against the property owners, in the paving district. The center strip will be paid for by the state.

The bids on the traffic lights, which include the control mechanism: H. B. Allen Co. Des Moines, Ia., $544.70; General Electric Co., Omaha, $547.40; and Korsmeyer Co., Lincoln, $547.40.

Applicaton To Stop Train No. 5 Withdrawn

Formalities closing the agreement between Lincoln and the Burlington railroad whereby the Ak-Sar-Ben, No. 5, will be left in service between Lincoln and Omaha, were completed at the state railway commission Saturday. The railroad withdrew its application to remove the Ak-Sar-Ben but was given authority to discontinue No. 8, which leaves Lincoln for Omaha at 4:30 p. m., effective Aug. 11. No change will be made in the schedule of No. 15.

Humane Society Gets $4,351 Insurance Money

The Lincoln and Lancaster county Humane society received $4,351 in insurance as result of fire damage to the animal shelter at Sixth and Hatch streets, several weeks ago, the report of the superintendent for July, filed with the city clerk reveals. Exclusive of this amount, the society's cash balance on August 1, was $3,913.44. July income was $575.75, and expenses, $791.05. The cash balance on the same date a year ago was $2,482.28.

New Coach Takes Reins At Shubert Hi School

SHUBERT, Neb., Aug. 10—Harry Vix of Monango, N. D., has signed to coach athletics at the Shubert high school this year. He replaces Bernard Barisas, coach here for the past two years, whose plans for the future are indefinite. Besides his coaching duties, Vix will teach manual training and history. In high school, he participated in all of the major sports, specializing in track.

Tuesday's Fight In Silly Class

DODGER DANDY BLANKS BEES

Whit Wyatt Doles Four Hits to Boston Club In Shutout Win.

By ED KIELY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—The Cincinnati Reds can brag all they want about their classy pitching corps, but they never will be able to convince Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers that any of their hurlers is better than his big right-hander, Whitlow Wyatt.

Leads With His Ace.

Yesterday, Leo the lip sent his ace against the Boston Bees, who lately have been going like champs, and big Whit promptly put a stop to the Bostonians' four-game winning streak by setting them down, 1 to 0, on four hits.

LEO DUROCHER.

In so doing, Wyatt won his fourth straight victory and his twelfth of the season — but that is only part of the story.

In addition, he struck out seven batters and when his teammates failed to get him any runs, he started a rally himself in the eighth with a single and eventually scored the only run of the game.

It was shutout No. 5 for Wyatt and he now leads the league in the white-washing department. He also has whiffed the most batsmen—101.

Reds Plaster Cards.

After knowing the Dodgers were sticking close by their heels, the league-leading Reds went out and plastered the St. Louis Cardinals with a 7 to 2 defeat in a night game. Junior Thompson, who has been out of the lineup since he was spiked in a fight in Brooklyn, came back to bolster the faltering Reds by limiting the Red Birds to eight hits.

In another evening engagement, Manager Frank Frisch's fighting Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 2, and at the same time took over possession of fourth place in the National league. Tut Sewell, the Buccaneers' mainstay of the mound, allowed the Windy City team only four hits. New York and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Chisox Whip Tigers.

The second division clubs took their licks out of their first division brethren in night games in the American league.

Edgar Smith, Chicago White Sox southpaw, emulated the heroics of Wyatt by pitching and batting the Sox to a 3 to 2 triumph over the league-leading Detroit Tigers.

Smith spaced out five Tiger hits and fanned eleven. In the ninth, he singled, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored the winning run on Mike Keevich's two-bagger.

Browns Scalp Indians.

After being shut out for the first six innings, the St. Louis Browns put on a strong finish to score four runs in the last three innings and rose out the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 3. Walt Judnich homered in the eighth, when the Browns tallied twice.

The New York Yankees handed the last place Philadelphia Athletics a 2 to 0 lacing. Steve Sundra and Red Ruffing combined efforts to hold the A's to two hits. Ruffing retired in the third inning with a pulled tendon in his leg.

The Washington Senators staged a two-run splurge in the ninth to eke out a 6 to 5 verdict over the Boston Red Sox.

Ogallala Bags Finale Of State Ball Tourney

OGALLALA, Neb., Aug. 10—(AP)—Ogallala won the state semi-pro baseball tournament last night, defeating Hershey, 8-5. It was the fourth straight victory for the champions. Hershey defeated Bayard, 15-3, in the opener to enter the finals with Ogallala. Score:

OVER THE STATE

by ALEX STODDARD

NOW that Lincoln's Blues have won the state American Legion Junior baseball tournament for the third time (others were 1935 and 1938), Coach Frank "Red" Mueller and his boys are thinking about the business of next week-end—that of the four-state tournament at York . . . Should the Blues win that meet, they will be qualified for the all-western tourney, which likely will be held somewhere on the west coast, though the place has not been selected as yet . . . "Chip" Bowley, state Junior baseball director, believes that the Capital City nine can come through at York, basing his belief on the fact that Nebraska baseball usually is superior to that of the two Dakotas and Wyoming.

LINCOLN will have two flingers ready for the four-state affair—Southpaw Bill Jennings and Bob Gropp, who flings from the orthodox side . . . Then, there's the possibility that Bob Jacobsen, regular outfielder and reserve catcher, who didn't play at all in the sub-state tourney at Fremont and the state meet at West Point, will be back in action.

WEST POINT NOTES: The Scottsbluff team combined pleasure with education on the trip . . . The boys from the panhandle used one of the days when rain interfered with the state tournament to visit Omaha, a new experience for many members of the squad, and Friday journeyed to Lincoln . . . Many of the boys never had seen the state capitol or the University of Nebraska, so Manager Dick Cleveland brought the team to Lincoln for a tour of the state house and the university, escorted by Justice E. F. Carter of the Nebraska supreme court . . . Lincoln's players are planning to chip in to buy a medal for Norman "Spoolix" Boyle, crack West Point hurler . . . It was Boyle's courageous and effective hurling which enabled West Point to halt the march of Omaha Powers to the state crown and give Lincoln a second crack at Cornie Collin's nine . . . Collin was the most unpopular guy at West Point—the crowd didn't like his argumentative actions . . . The four-day tourney attracted a total of about 4,500 spectators.

HODGE-PODGE: Everett Stone, principal of Scottsbluff high school, isn't saying much about the hole-in-one he scored on the 135-yard hole at the Scottsbluff Country club . . . It seems that his wife aced another and longer hole earlier in the season . . . Harold Johnk, line coach at Omaha university, has been released from an Omaha hospital, after a week's treatment, and returned to his home at Walnut, Ia., to rest for the coming football season . . . Tekamah, first-half champs, fell into a tie for the cellar in the Pioneer Night baseball league Friday night, losing to Wahoo, 6-2 . . . The Northeast Nebraska golf tournament Sunday and Monday at Wayside club, Columbus, listed about 125 entries . . . The annual western Nebraska tennis tournament has been dated for Alliance, Aug. 31-Sept. 2, with Jack Ringwalt of Omaha defending singles champion.

Jacobs In Low Gear In Deal For Dodgers

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—There has been "no progress" in the negotiations for the proposed sale of the Brooklyn Dodgers to Mike Jacobs, fight promoter, George Barnewall of the Brooklyn Trust company, which controls half of the ball club's stock stated today.

"We saw Mr. Jacobs some three weeks ago and held a conference over the suggested sale, but we have not seen him since," Barnewell declared.

Asserting that "no meeting is contemplated," Barnewall spiked reports that a meeting of the Dodger stockholders had been summoned.

PASTOR PILOT AIRS HIS ANGER

Fight Manager's Grouch Provoked By Boosters For Billy Conn.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(AP)—James Joy Johnston, who manages fighters, is irked, no end.

James Joy feels that his lad, Bob Pastor, who takes on Billy Conn in the Polo Grounds Tuesday night, has been slighted by (1) the bookmakers, (2) the boxing commissioners and (3) the boxing "experts."

Scoffs For Gamblers.

Jimmy figures it isn't quite cricket that the gamblers have made Conn favorite at odds ranging from 5 to 7 all the way up to 1 to 2; that the boxing commission has cold-shouldered Rapid Robert in his training quarters, and that most of the "experts" are picking Pittsburgh Billy to win.

JIMMY JOHNSTON.

"How do those gamblers figure, anyhow?" Jimmy wanted to know. "Pastor went 21 rounds with Joe Louis. No one thinks Conn would have a chance with the bomber. So what do they do but make Billy the favorite. What kind of a business is that?

Accuses Commish.

"As for the commission — I'd like to know why two commissioners, as well as a few of their deputies and inspectors, have visited Mike Jacobs' pet, Conn, at his training camp at Grossinger's, 108 miles from here, while up to yesterday all three commissioners, all five deputies and every one of the 22 boxing inspectors were conspicuous by their absence from Stillman's gym, where Bob is training. And Stillman's is only a nickel subway ride from their office. General Phelan (Commission Chairman John J. Phelan) finally condescended to see Pastor work yesterday after word got around that I was going to beef to the newspapermen.

Heaps Scorn On Experts.

"What would you think if you were the referee or one of the judges in Tuesday's fight? Isn't there the possibility that some one of the officials, knowing of the attention paid to Conn, may feel that his superiors are anxious to see Billy win?"

From there it was only a short pitch and putt for James Joy to take off on the "experts." Several of them took up the argument; showed just how Conn could do that thing to Jimmy's Bobby. James Joy countered with a promise to each one that Bob would personally knock Conn into his lap on Tuesday.

KRACEK COPS RACING SPOILS

Omaha Driver Again Top Winner of Midget Speed Card.

By DON KELLOGG.

A record-breaking entry of 17 midget race drivers displayed helplessness before the superb manipulation of Omaha's Eddie Kracek at Landis Field Friday night and the latter moved away with the majority of the prize spoils.

Ten New Drivers.

Ten new faces put in an appearance before the 1,700 spectators and although every race had its thrills, only the unfamiliarity that these drivers had for the track kept the proceedings from being recorded as the "meet of meets."

At that, Al Slaughter, the present Texas champion, sheared the track record down to 16.23 seconds during the time trials. All recordings were good, for that matter.

Kracek showed his superiority in the first event that he was entered. He won the second preliminary by several lengths over the popular George Binney and his roaring outboard—a feat which he duplicated in the 25-lap feature finale.

Three Wins For Kracek.

Kracek's third triumph came in the three-lap trophy dash. On the final turn, he managed to nose out Slaughter as both speedsters cut for the beam.

Bill Barber, a newcomer from Kansas City, took the honors in the first preliminary, while Leo Glaze of Houston was awarded the blue ribbon in the third heat.

In the second handicap, Daryl Wood successfully fought off a desperate field to win in one of the evening's best races. It was Glaze again in the Australian pursuit, while Red Iverson copped the semi-final affair.

Track In Top Trim.

The track was in exceptionally good shape, but the drivers of the Offerhausers found their racers too heavy to keep up with the lighter machines over the moisture-soaked surface.

Fletcher Pierce, Gilmore stadium champion, was on hand, but ran out of the money all the way through.

A Lincoln driver, Buzz Lowe, operating a racer built by another Lincolnite, Chester Wilson, put in an appearance for the first time. It was his initial try at racing, as well as the first time out for the car.

Neither Pastor Nor Conn Can Rate As Worthy Opponent Of Champion Louis.

By LAWTON CARVER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—Billy Conn, the world light-heavyweight champion, and Bob Pastor will conclude training over the week-end for a prize fight which, in some of its aspects, is one of the strangest struggles ever perpetrated within the so-called hempen strands. Briefly, two ordinary light-heavyweights are about to tangle for the right to meet one of the greatest heavyweight champions of all time. One or the other will get Joe Louis in September.

Soft Pickings For Joe.

The forthcoming brawl, scheduled for 15 rounds at the Polo Grounds Tuesday night, will be a good fight for the simple fact that both Conn and Pastor are game and clever and willing. But why either of them should be figured as a logical opponent for Louis might be perplexing but for the fact that Louis and his handlers and Promoter Mike Jacobs all want Louis in one more fight this year. There is nobody else around except the survivor of this engagement.

Promoter Jacobs and Louis' handlers must realize that neither Conn nor Pastor has the remotest chance of beating Louis. In fact, Pastor already has proved the point, insofar as he is concerned, in two fights with Louis. He lost one on a decision after out-running Louis for 10 rounds and he lost the other on a knockout in 11 rounds. Conn couldn't hope to do much better than get knocked out sooner or later by the champion.

That Silly Situation.

The silliest thing about this whole situation is the attempt to build Conn and Pastor into legitimate heavyweights. Conn has been stuffed and fattened to the bulging point between fights, but invariably trains it all off and steadfastly remains a light-heavy.

As for Pastor, he is a 180-pounder tops and probably could make the light-heavyweight limit, too, if pressed, except that there is more money to be found among the heavies than among the 175-pounders.

Nevertheless, the winner gets Louis—gentle murder.

In the event Conn wins, he will box Louis either here in New York or in his native Pittsburgh. If Pastor wins, the bout probably will go to Washington. In either case, Louis will score a knockout whenever he gets ready.

Silly? Don't mention it.

Blues Bump Omaha Powers In Climax Of Legion Playoff

Lincoln Lads Apply Choker In Ninth; Win By 7-6.

By ALEX STODDARD.

WEST POINT, Neb., Aug. 10 — Lincoln's Blues moved into the king row in Nebraska's American Legion Junior baseball by annexing a 7-6 victory over the Omaha Powers in a play-off game for the 1940 state championship here Friday afternoon.

Omaha Rally Falls Short.

The Blues, after coming from behind, ran into the problem of choking off a ninth-inning Omaha rally which had everyone in the stands in a frenzy of excitement.

The first three innings of the game seemed to indicate that Omaha, with the aid of Pitcher Jim Sandstedt's fine chucking, would repeat the triumph of Wednesday. Omaha counted one run in the first on Burgess' single, a hit batsman and McCawley's single, then picked up two in the third when Jaksich homered to center, McCawley walked, went to second on a passed ball and third on a wild pitch and came home on Conn's double to make it 3-0 for the Powers.

Blues Go Ahead.

Lincoln closed the gap in the fourth when Maser and Healy walked and Daniel singled, scoring Maser, and Healy came in on a passed ball.

Play was tight until the seventh, when Lincoln forged ahead. Gropp was hit by a pitched ball, then Sandstedt steadied to fan Jennings and Rubino. Hall was safe on Conway's error, and the bases were filled when Maser was hit by a pitched ball. Healy walked to force in Gropp, then Daniel drilled a sharp single to right for two runs and a 5-3 lead.

Rubino Hits For Circuit.

The runs which proved to be the deciding margin came in the eighth when Jennings lived on Volenec's error and Bobby Rubino poled a long homer into the lake behind left field. It was Rubino's second hit of the tournament and the second time in 11 official trips to the plate that he hit the ball out of the infield.

The game wasn't over, though. Maser's error let Redden live as the ninth round opened. Then Burgess tripled and came in on a wild pitch to make it 7-5. Jaksich flied to Healy, but McCawley pumped a homer into the lake to close it to a single run. Conn skied to Healy, but Heyde doubled to put the potential tying run on second.

Jennings Applies Choker.

Bill Jennings, who had started on the mound but moved to first base in the second inning when his throwing arm began paining, traded places with Pitcher Gropp. Manager Cornie Collin of the Powers inserted Hornig, a right-hander, as pinch-hitter for Southpaw Conway, but the move didn't pan out, as Jennings whiffed him on four pitches to end the game.

Lincoln next plays in the four-state tournament Aug. 17 and 18 at York, meeting Casper, Wyoming champion; Sioux Falls, South Dakota king, and the winner of the North Dakota eliminations now in progress. The score:

New York Sets Pace In Contract Compet

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 10—(AP)—Harry Harkavy and Ambrose Casner of New York City held a small lead today in the world's masters' pair bridge championships which carry with it the $5,000 Von Zedtwitz gold cup.

In a field of 64, largest in the history of the American Contract Bridge league tournament event, Harkavy and Casner took a 21½ point lead at the end of the second session of the four-round contest last night over Howard Schenken and Merwin D. Maier, also New Yorkers. In the third place were Myron Fuchs and Sam Fry, jr., of New York.

Semi-finals of the masters' team of four world championship were scheduled for this afternoon, with three seeded teams out of four already eliminated.

"Four Aces" Knocked Out.

The only favored team to survive yesterday's round was that of Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, Edward Hymes, Jr., Charles Lochridge, Fry and Fuchs, all of New York.

Outstanding upset of the day's play was the elimination of the "Four Aces," Oswald Jacoby, T. A. Lightner, Schenken and Maier, all New Yorkers, who have won the title four of the five times it has been played.

They were knocked out by the Baltimore foursome of Col. Robert J. Gill, Clagett Bowie, Arthur E. Schlesinger and Charles Shapiro.

OLD HANDS AT PEAK OF HEAP

Radcliff, Danning Still Batting Leaders In Big Leagues.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(AP)—The same old hands still are at the batting helm of the two major leagues and nothing short of some sudden and surprising effort from the rest of the hitters is likely to bring about a change.

Leaders In Slight Slump.

Both Rip Radcliff of the St. Louis Browns and Hank Danning of the New York Giants slipped slightly this week, but the era of good pitching in the big leagues had the same effect on the batting averages of most of the other top hurlers.

Radcliff's mark went from .367 to .360 and Danning's from .335 to .334. However, Barney McCosky, the No. 2 man in the junior circuit, also fell three points to .348 and in the National league Merrill May of the Phillies, who had been within four points of Danning, skidded away off to .318.

This latter development was accompanied by the sensational spurt of Boston's Carvel Rowell, who moved from nowhere into second place with a mark of .327. The 10 leaders and ties in each league:

NEVER TOO YOUNG—NOR TOO OLD

A GUY has to take time off and play once in a while, whether he's three or 77 years old. Johnny Wagner (above) tunes up for the gridiron season with this mid-summer practice. Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics' major domo, takes advantage of a dull pre-game moment to show he still can use a catcher's equipment.

Six Horses On Mark In American Derby

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—(INS)—Lured by the promise of a thrilling race by the nation's top flight 3-year-olds or the prospect that a longshot may come out of nowhere to pay off the mortgage on the familyhomestead, a crowd of upwards of 40,000 was on hand today for the thirtieth running of the $60,000 American Derby.

Only six horses were ready for the mile and one-quarter event at the Washington park oval, and three of these—Colonel E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion and Charles T. Fisher's Sirocco—were ready to supply all the drama that goes with the running of the derby. All of these three have beaten each other in major turf attractions this season.

The other three are relegated to the longshot class by reason of earlier performance or lack of performance—Charles S. Howard's Mioland, William B. Simpson's Weigh Anchor, which is a Chicago-owned horse, as is Gallahadion, winner of this year's Kentucky derby, and Mrs. Emil Denemark's Super Chief.

Man of Week in Sports.

THE spotlight is earned this week by Sidney Charles Hudson, a 22-year-old rookie pitcher with the Washington Senators, who, thus far this season, has turned in two one-hit games.

Skyscraping Sid, who towers six feet, four inches into the ozone, was one of the pitching sensations of the minor leagues last season, winning 24 games and losing four for Sanford in the Florida State league.

Two of his losses were of the hard-luck variety. One he dropped when his teammates committed some costly errors in the field, the other because his team failed to score while the opposition tallied but once.

In addition, Hudson had the distinction of finishing every game he started, led the league in strikeouts with 192 and walked only 63 batters in 250 innings. His earned run average—the lowest in the league—was 1.79.

Hudson first missed baseball's hall of fame in a night game with the St. Louis Browns on June 21 this year. He had a no-hitter in his grasp until Rip Radcliff socked a two-bagger in the ninth. Last Tuesday, he blanked the Philadelphia Athletics, with Sam Chapman collecting the only hit off him,—a scratch single in the seventh.
